TAMMANY BEGINS TO CLEAN HOUSE FOR LEGISLATORS

This is General Interpretation of Resignations of Two Men High in Bureau of Buildings.

INVESTIGATORS NOT NAMED YET

Mayor James J. Walker Expected Home From California Next Week to Answer Charges.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 26.—With the legislative investigation of New York City's official life impending the two highest officials of the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings resigned and the resignations are generally taken as indication that Tammany is engaged in house-cleaning.

Charles Brady, Superintendent, and Rollin C. Bassett, Chief Inspector, were the two officials who resigned.

The Department was included in the 11 investigated by the Commissioner of Accounts. Any changes in the city administration are expected to be based on inquiries made by the Commissioner of Accounts. Reports of the inquiries are to be turned over to the Mayor, who requested them, when he returns from California next week. The same report is expected to form the groundwork for the Mayor's formal reply to charges made by the City Affairs Committee, and submitted to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The City Affairs Committee is preparing to make its charges against Mayor Walker more specific. It also plans to gather data for the Legislative Committee.

After a conference with Rep. Harry W. Wadsworth, of W. Va., and Mayor Macay, State chairman announced it was unlikely the Legislative Committee would be named until the Assembly adjourned April 10 or 11.

Dudley Field Malone, lawyer, in canceling an engagement to speak next Sunday at a community church forum, accused John Haynes Holmes, the pastor, of "bearing false witness" against the Mayor. The minister is a member of the City Affairs Committee. He prepared the Walker charges in collaboration with Rabbi Stephen S. Wise.

The Brooklyn Federation of Citizens refused to act on a letter sent by the chairman of the Greater New York Federation, which urged general sponsoring of the investigation. Said the Rev. Dr. Frederick M. Gordon, executive secretary of the Brooklyn federation: "The generalities regarding court and graft inquiries which we have been asked to sponsor smack too much of one political party trying to strike back at the other. We must wait for something to aim at before we attack."

The New York Times says Tammany has notified Gov. Roosevelt if he referred the charges against Mayor Walker to the Legislative Investigating Committee it would be considered "an unfriendly act."

Additional accusations were made today against two former vice squad patrolmen, Richard Ganly and Andrew G. McLaughlin—during the investigation into the Magistrate's courts.

Ada Kelly, 22-year-old inmate of the House of the Good Shepherd, charged that Ganly arrested her without cause last October, after he had offered to trade freedom for money.

"We're looking for a blonde," she quoted Ganly as saying at the time of her arrest. "She's not here, so we'll have to take someone."

The young witness, Mrs. Mary Saguin, weak from a recent operation, testified that Ganly and McLaughlin entered her home during her husband's absence, made improper overtures, implied that they would accept $200 to abandon the case, and finally arrested her.

Patrick J. Sheely, chief probation officer in magistrates' courts, said conditions were "distressing and depressing" because the probation bureaus were undermanned and underpaid.

Doctor Says Walker is "OK." He is Smart Home Sunday.

PALM SPRINGS, Calif., March 26.—Mayor James J. Walker of New York is OK, Dr. Silas A. Lewis of Los Angeles said last night after making a thorough physical examination. "The Mayor is organically sound," the doctor said. "While he is fit to return to New York now, I advised him to remain away another month in order to make permanent his gain in health."

"I wish I could stay longer," the Mayor said, "but will go back, starting probably Sunday."

At the Mayor's request, Dr. Lewis issued a statement saying that Dr. Walker's accelerated report of Walker's condition, when he left New York indicated he was suffering from physical exhaustion, general fatigue, neuritis and an attack of bursitis, which was disabling his shoulder.

$7325 DONATED TO RELIEF FUND ON FOURTH DAY

Increases Total to $76,297. Citizens' Committee Announces $26,000 Contributed on Monday.

SUBSCRIPTIONS SHOW CONTINUOUS DECLINE

"Significance of Situation Not Fully Understood by People," Finance Director Declares.

Contributions toward the $300,000 emergency fund of Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment acknowledged today were $7325, bringing the total for the four days of the campaign to $76,297.

Pointing out that daily reports of contributions have declined steadily from more than $26,000 on the opening day, L. C. Haworth, director of the finance division of the committee, concluded that "we are failing completely to convey the true picture of the needs, the amount of human suffering and despair which will prevail if the relief work of the committee must stop for lack of funds."

"We have tried to place the facts before responsible citizens of St. Louis, confidently believing that the response to our appeal would be adequate to the need," Haworth said. "A sufficient number of generous subscriptions have come in to convince us that in some cases a more recital of the facts is all that is necessary."

Further Donations Essential. "But the fact remains that others have brought the significance of the situation. Unless a larger number of citizens and corporations give in amounts equal and even larger than those which have been announced there is little hope of our raising the minimum amount asked."

"Experience has taught us that no one is justified in passing judgment on the amount of another's donation to a cause like this. Personal obligations, internal financial problems of business enterprises explain the apparent inequality."

"But in fairness to those who have responded generously and for the sake of men, women and children who are victims of the present emergency, we appeal to every individual and business firm to respond immediately with subscriptions in amounts large enough to guarantee the success of this civic and humanitarian undertaking."

Individual Tax Schedules. The graduated individual tax, which with the corporation income tax, is expected to yield slightly more than $10,000,000 annually, is at the following rates:

On net taxable incomes (gross income less legal deductions and personal exemptions) not exceeding $1000, a rate of one per cent.

On net taxable incomes in excess of $1000 and not in excess of $2000, a rate of one and one-half per cent, less $5.

On net taxable incomes in excess of $2000 and not in excess of $3000, a rate of two per cent, less $15.

On net taxable incomes in excess of $3000 and not in excess of $5000, a rate of two and one-half per cent, less $30.

On net taxable incomes in excess of $5000 and not in excess of $7000, a rate of three per cent, less $55.

On net taxable incomes in excess of $7000 and not in excess of $9000, a rate of three and one-half per cent, less $90.

On net taxable incomes in excess of $9000, a rate of four per cent on the total of such incomes, less $135.

Reported Unemployed. The Federal Census Bureau has reported that 94,223 persons were unemployed in St. Louis during the month of January. Of these 77,560 were able to work and looking for jobs, and 15,665 had nominal jobs but were laid off without pay. Relief agencies have no way of knowing whether the number of unemployed has changed, but a report a decided increase in the number of applications for help.

Campaign headquarters for the Citizens' Committee have been established at Hotel Statler. Donations may be mailed there, with checks made payable to R. S. Hayes, treasurer.

Contributions acknowledged to date include:

$500—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Higgins, J. A. Baer, $400—Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Sudholt.

$300—Kline's, Inc., Mrs. J. Porter, Tirrell.

SENATE VOTES TO CALL BRUNK TO ANSWER CHARGES APRIL 2

Delay in Service of Summons Urged to Save State Treasurer's Pay and Let Governor Pick Successor.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.—An early beginning of the impeachment trial of State Treasurer Larry Brunk was indicated last night when the Senate adopted a resolution ordering issuance of a summons for Brunk and directing him to appear before the bar of the Senate April 2 to answer the nine articles of impeachment presented Tuesday by the House.

When the summons is served, Brunk automatically will be suspended from office and a temporary Treasurer will be appointed by Gov. Caulfield. Service may be delayed for several days to give the Governor an opportunity to choose a temporary Treasurer and to give the person selected an opportunity to obtain a bond of $500,000. This procedure will avoid a vacancy in the office.

Brunk's trial will be held in the same lines until 1893, when he died.

He said a conference should be had with Brunk's attorney, John Madden of Kansas City, who, he said he felt certain, would agree to a stipulation that Brunk would be ready for trial on some particular date to be agreed on.

Casey's colleague, Senator Davis, took a directly opposite position.

He insisted the date for Brunk's appearance should be advanced to March 30 and that the trial should be rushed to avoid holding the Senate in session long after its regular procedure were completed.

The Attorney-General added he had received an inquiry recently from Senator Couzens (Rep.),

Michigan, as to whether the inquiry was being made, and had replied in the affirmative.

Word came earlier from the office of John Lord O'Bryan, Assistant Attorney-General, charge of anti-trust matters, that a file of correspondence from Couzens to the Interstate Commerce Commission, alleging the prices of steel rails were "out of line," had been turned over to the Justice Department.

Several of his clients also made bequests to him.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—An investigation of steel-making corporations to determine whether the prices of steel rails are being fixed in violation of the Sherman antitrust law was disclosed today by

Attorney-General Mitchell.

The request for an investigation,

Mitchell said, came from the Interstate Commerce Commission. He said the inquiry was recently instituted and no results could be announced until later.

JOSEPH M. LEVI, HEAD OF REALTY FIRM, DIES

In This Business Since 1893—Ten Days' Illness of Pneumonia Fatal.

Joseph M. Levi, 65 years old, head of the real estate firm of J. M. Levi & Co., died today in Jewish Hospital after 10 days' illness of pneumonia. The funeral will be held at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Rindskopf undertaking establishment, 5216 Delmar boulevard.

Mr. Levi, born in Memphis, Tenn., began business life in St. Louis in 1882, in the employ of a wholesale grocery firm. He worked for this and another firm in the same line until 1893, when he entered the real estate business as a member of the firm of Levi & Einstein. In 1898 he had been in business alone, his firm being now at 109 North Seventh street.

One of the best known figures on Realty Row, Mr. Levi had received unusual marks of the respect of his clients. Nine persons, not related to him, but whom he had served as agents, property manager and lender of money, made bequests to Mr. Levi in their wills, the total of these remembrances being between $35,000 and $40,000. Seven of his clients also made him their executor.

One woman, Mrs. ... who left Mr. Levi nearly all her property, was found to have kept the real estate dealer's picture with several religious objects which, as a devout Catholic, she treasured. He had helped her to make a competence out of her small holding.

When asked to explain the confidence and affection shown by these persons whose relations with him had been those of the business world, Mr. Levi could say only that he had endeavored to be "a square shooter."

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Evelyn Levi, 275 Union boulevard, a daughter, Mrs. F. J. Zuzak Shreveport, La., and a son, Melvin Levi.

Swinging Batter Hits Boy.

Fred Swanson, 5 years old, 1537 Wall place, suffered a possible fracture of the skull yesterday when he accidentally struck with a baseball bat by Angeline Mica, 13, 1759 South Sixteenth street. Witnesses reported that the boy ran in front of the batter. He is at City Hospital.

GRAND JURY NEAR END OF INQUIRY IN BANK LOOT CASE

F. E. Gunter Said to Be Only Witness Still to Be Questioned—Report Being Formulated.

Concluding its examination of available witnesses in the Grand National Bank bond recovery case with a two-hour investigation of Chief Clerk F. E. Gunter yesterday afternoon, the grand jury met today for a general discussion of the testimony it has heard.

With only eight days remaining until the jury is dissolved April 3, to be succeeded by a new body, the grand jurors have laid aside all other business to devote their time exclusively to this case.

While indictments are not expected, the jury must correlate the testimony of more than 25 witnesses who have appeared in seven afternoon sessions and formulate an opinion to be embodied in the jury's final report to the Circuit Court.

Circuit Attorney Miller said the jury had no material evidence on which to base an indictment beyond the facts that have been published in the Post-Dispatch. While declining to express an opinion as to whether these facts are sufficient basis for a true bill, Miller has pointed out that the April term grand jury, to be impaneled April 6, may continue the investigation after reading the transcript of the testimony heard by the present body.

So far as is known, only one witness remains to be questioned by the present grand jury, which began its investigation shortly after the announcement by the Grand National Bank Feb. 20 that $822,000 worth of bonds stolen in a burglary had been recovered for $140,000.

This witness is Felix E. Gunter, director of the board of directors of the First National Bank and principal stockholder of the Vandeventer Securities Co., which owns a 48 per cent interest in the Grand National Bank. Gunter is in Arizona on vacation and is expected back early next week.

BYRON NUGENT HOME WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION APRIL 6

Place Built in 1897 at Cost of $140,000; Residence Is at 29 Westmoreland Place.

The Byron Nugent home, a 12-room residence at 29 Westmoreland Place, will be sold at auction April 6 at noon at the east door of the Civil Courts Building, according to Samuel Sievers, special commissioner in a partition suit filed by Julian L. Nugent of Colorado Springs.

Julian Nugent and his brother, Edwin T. Nugent of St. Louis, will share equally in the proceeds of the sale as the heirs of their mother, Mrs. Julia L. Nugent. Mrs. Nugent was the widow of Byron Nugent, founder of B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co., who built the house in 1897 at a cost of $140,000. The house has been unoccupied since the death of Mrs. Nugent in 1928. It contains hand-carved woodwork that cost $40,000. The furnishings were sold at auction for $48,000 in 1929.

FLAGLER HEIRESS MARRIES

Niece of Railroad Builder Is Bride for Third Time.

By the Associated Press.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 26.—Mrs. Louise Wise Lewis, heiress to the millions of the late Henry M. Flagler, developer of the Florida East Coast Railway, was married here yesterday to Francis G. Francis of this city and New York. Mrs. Francis is the daughter of J. K. Wise, Wilmington, N. C., and the niece of William R. Kenan Jr., president of the Florida East Coast Railway Co. She was the niece of the late Henry M. Flagler. She gave her age as 34. The bridegroom is 32. They will spend their honeymoon in El Paso, Tex. She had been married twice before.

RACING LAW CHANGE URGED

Illinois Legislator Wants Inquiry In Total Amount of Bets.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 26.—Public distrust of racing associations due to the fact that the racing act of 1927 required no statement of the amount wagered on races was cited yesterday by Representative Shafrazi O'Neill, Illinois, as offering a bill in the House today to provide that a House committee of five be named to investigate wagering and report back proposals for corrective legislation.

"No racing association," the bill said, "has made public the total amount wagered on each race. That failure has resulted in public distrust and has given rise to embezzlement of money wagered by bankers, brokers, messengers and employees."

Boar Hunt Disables Chaplin.

PARIS, March 26.—Stiff and sore from a boar hunt on horseback, Charlie Chaplin said he had canceled his trip to Aintree to watch the running of the Grand National. "I feel that the mere sight of the horses going over the jumps will hurt me very badly in my body," he said. He spent another two-hour session with a masseur yesterday. The comedian was the guest of the Duke and Duchess of Westminster in a hunt Tuesday on their estate near Saint Saens.

MUSSOLINI OPENS WORLD GRAIN PARLEY AT ROME

Denies There Is Overproduction of Wheat; U. S. Representation "Unofficial."

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 26.—The world's wheat crisis comes not so much from overproduction but from under-consumption, Premier Mussolini told the first meeting of the world grain conference here today.

"Therefore," he said. "it would be rash indeed to call for limitation of cultivation of cereals when in the world there are all too many people who are greatly undernourished." Bread, he said, has somewhat been replaced by more choice types of food with improved standards of life among the masses.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The State Department in a formal statement today emphatically asserted that no Americans attended the International Institute of Agriculture to send a representative to the conference was declined after the State Department consulted the Agriculture Department and the Farm Board.

How Much Energy Have YOU At the End of the Day?

"The American People Are Losing Their Pep"

Mental and Physical Exhaustion

—so says a prominent physician. He goes on to say: "Exhaustion is becoming daily a more chronic complaint, and the 'tired business man' is an actuality, and a large percentage of patients seeking advice from physicians are suffering from no disease at all—they are simply exhausted."

Exhaustion and Many Ailments Are Caused by

A LACK OF CALCIUM

The average adult requires at least 45 grams of calcium per day to maintain normal condition, but this should be added a supply for storage and waste. The modern diet, employing so much refined food, does not contain near the amount of calcium needed to even maintain normal functioning. We are a Calcium-Starved Race!

ALBERTY'S FOOD

It helps supply the body with Calcium. It is a substance which constantly liberates energy which revitalizes organic matter and promotes a condition which permits greater assimilation of food. In each glassful of Alberty's Food resides a revitalizing force which is expressed in energy, cell renewal and improved chemical transformations.

WOULD BAR SCHWARTZ

IN ALDERMANIC RACE

C. J. Eisenring Seeks to Have Noninvee Declared Non-Resident of City.

Hearing of the application by Charles J. Eisenring to have the name of Alderman Wilbur C. Schwartz struck from the roll of registered voters in the Twenty-fourth Precinct of the Twentieth Ward, on the ground that Schwartz is not a resident of the ward or city, but of University City, was held by the Election Board at City Hall yesterday.

Eisenring, who is president of the Building Trades Council, was defeated by Schwartz for the Republican nomination for Alderman from the Twentieth Ward in the recent primary. Eisenring says his motive is to prevent a nonresident from representing a ward, but he would not be averse to being named to the vacancy if Schwartz were held ineligible to run for Alderman.

The Election Board can strike Schwartz's name from the registration books if it finds he was not qualified to register as a resident of the Twentieth Ward or Eisenring could appeal to the courts.

The Charter provides that an Alderman must be a "voter" without stating whether registered or qualified, and must have been a resident of his ward for a year before his election. The Board of Aldermen is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members and should the Election Board uphold Eisenring's contention, that action would amount only to evidence to law before the Aldermen.

Schwartz registered as living at 4434 Evans Avenue in a lower flat. Formerly he gave his address as 3816A St. Louis Avenue, an upper flat. Although attorneys for Schwartz and Eisenring said their witnesses were ready to be sworn today, Chairman Remmers of the Election Board held it had no authority to administer an oath.

Eisenring testified that Schwartz had resided at 7204 Westmoreland Drive, University City, for the last two years; that he had seen Schwartz at that address several months ago and recently, both before and after Feb. 18, when Schwartz registered at the Twenty-fourth Ward, that the St. Louis Avenue flat had been vacant for some time and that it was learned mail addressed to Schwartz there was forwarded to the University City address for the last two years. Eisenring declared that two automobiles licensed for Schwartz were seen at the garage of the University house and that the Evans Avenue flat had no garage. He said Schwartz had arranged for a telephone at the University City house, listed in his wife's name, and that the house was taxed in the name of Mrs. Charles J. Eisenring.

Schwartz testified he bought the county residence in March, 1929, as a speculation and had been looking for a buyer ever since. Meanwhile, he said, his wife and child lived on Westmoreland Avenue, while he occupied a rented front room at the Evans Avenue address.

PROPOSAL TO CUT STATE TAX VALUES BY $124,092,000

Missouri Commission Recommends Assessment of $4,120,108,000 for Real and Personal Property.

TOTAL VALUATION IN ST. LOUIS REDUCED

Decreases Favored on Farms, but Increases Are Suggested for Town and City Real Estate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.—The State Tax Commission yesterday recommended an assessed valuation of $4,120,108,569 for all real estate and personal property in Missouri for 1931 taxes, in its report to the Board of Equalization which fixes the final valuations.

The total recommended is a reduction of $124,092,729 from the valuations fixed by the Board of Equalization for 1930 taxes, the reduction being due to lowered assessments on farm land and personal property.

The assessment for farm land was recommended by the commission at $1,382,023,306, a reduction of $82,080,880 from the 1930 valuation. Assessments of city and town real estate were placed at $2,246,325,508, an increase of $36,465 over 1930. For personal property the Tax Commission recommended $591,760,205, a reduction of $78,359,904 from the 1930 assessment.

Utility Assessments Later.

The Tax Commission will submit recommendations to the Board of Equalization later on the assessments of private cars operated on railroads and on the part of the property of railroads and other public utilities which is assessed by the state.

In reducing the assessment for farm lands and increasing the valuation for city and town real estate, the Commission followed a policy that has been pursued by the Tax Commission and State Board of Equalization for nearly 10 years.

In 1921 all real estate assessments were sharply increased, in a move by Gov. Hyde to bring assessed valuations as nearly as possible to full valuation, as provided by law. This caused protests, particularly from rural sections of the state, and since that time the assessments of farm lands have been reduced each year. Tax valuations for town and city real estate have been increased each year, however.

Since 1921 the assessments of farm lands have been reduced $484,476,130, including the $82,078,880 reduction recommended by the Tax Commission for this year, which will be altered but little, if at all.

27 Per Cent Cut on Farm Land.

The reductions amount to approximately 27 per cent of the $1,767,568,718 fixed for farm lands by the Board of Equalization in 1921.

During the same period the assessments of city and town real estate have been increased $684,942,834, including the $36,346,055 increase recommended for this year. This is an increase of approximately 42 per cent over the valuation of $1,580,869,285 fixed for city and town real estate, in 1921.

The valuation of real estate and personal property recommended by the Commission for St. Louis is $1,256,554,200 for real estate and personal property. This is a reduction of $7,800,200 from the 1930 valuation for such property. The 1931 recommendation includes an increase of $26,023,890 in the assessment of real estate and a reduction of $32,824,094 in the assessment of personal property.

OFFERS OFFICERS' CEMETERY FOR BURIAL OF MRS. PICKETT

Head Indignant Because Widow of General Was Refused Place in Soldiers' Section.

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., March 26.—It relatives of Gen. George E. Pickett, hero of the Gettysburg charge, care to move his body from the soldiers' section to the officers' section in Hollywood Cemetery here, the ashes of his widow may be buried at his side. Mrs. Sidney Johnston Dudley, president of the Junior Hollywood Memorial Association, announces.

Mr. Dudley, whose organization has charge of the officers' section, expressed indignation at the action of the Ladies Hollywood Memorial Association which has charge of the soldiers' section in refusing a request to bury the widow of the General by his side.

In explaining the refusal of the senior association to permit the burial, Mrs. John F. Bauer, its president, said "it would mean that any widow of a Confederate soldier there would have the same right, which would obviously complicate matters in a section reserved exclusively for soldiers."

A decline of 40 per cent in accidents to passengers boarding or alighting from street cars as compared with figures of 1923, is noted.

There were 2518 accidents involving passengers in 1923 and 1523 in 1930.

Collisions between street cars have decreased 69 per cent since 1923. The ratio of all street car accidents, 3.2 to every 10,000 miles of travel here, compares favorably with the record of any other city

4 CLIMBERS DESCRIBE ASCENT OF MT. LASSEN

At 8000' Feet They Ran Into Blizzard—Warmed by Steam From Crater.

By the Associated Press.
LASSEN VOLCANIC NATIONAL PARK, Cal., March 26.—The crags of Lassen Peak, the only active volcanic mountain in continental United States, have been conquered by four residents of Oakland, who returned from an adventurous climb to the crater with exciting tales of their adventure.

The ascent was made by Oliver Kochel, James Nasser, James H.
Linford and Robert Strong. Arthur
G. Holmes, national park ranger, accompanied them as guide. Only three or four other persons have made the ascent in winter.

At the 8000-foot elevation the party ran into a blizzard that raged around the shoulder of the 10,403-foot mountain at 65 miles an hour.
From this blizzard the men fared well, but made no many false reports of eruptions. The wind picks up the snow and swirls it over the top in cloud-like gusts that look like steam and smoke that actually spout from the volcano in an eruption.

In the crater, which was reached last Sunday, the men found not only relief from wind and cold but saw many strange sights. The steam rose from the floor in the fumaroles and sulphur vents.

"We were rewarded," said Holmes, "by a splendid display of volcanic activity with steamers, boilers, fumeroles, sulphur vents, mud pots and boiling pools all contributing immense clouds of sulphurous steam. Large snow banks came to the very edge of the hot activity."

PAIR TERRORIZED IN HOME

Dentist, Wife Robbed at Hollis,
I. Two Women in Gang.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 26.—Five robbers, two of them women, held a dentist and his wife prisoner in an office in their own home at Hollis, L. I., last night and robbed them of money, jewels and clothing.
The victims were Dr. Edmund J. Bigall and his wife, Julia.

The robbers turned on all lights in the house, cut the telephone wires and played the radio. The woman stripped jewelry from Mrs.
Bigall and redressed in her clothing.
Dr. Bigall was beaten on the head with a pistol by one of the robbers. The pair were held up as they drove into their garage, after returning from the theater.
Neighbors who passed the place said they thought a bridge game was in progress.

What Does E. O. M. Sale Mean?

means that all odds and ends, short lots, slightly soiled merchandise, etc., that accumulates during an active month's business, must be disposed of before the month over. Drastic reductions are in order to move this merchandise and move it quickly. Every department in the store is included and all short lots, regardless of their desirability, must go. Friday's sale presents an unusual selection of merchandise accumulated throughout the Anniversary Sale and the busy month of March. Never before has merchandise been offered at such low prices. Former prices quoted are what this merchandise has sold for in our regular stock.

Seen and Heard in Russia

Difficult Part of Censorship
In Russia Is to Find a Censor, Correspondents Well Treated

THIS is the thirteenth article on Russia by Henry Wales, Paris correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, who is touring the Soviet Republics published in the Post-Dispatch by special arrangement. Mr. Wales says Soviet officials have informed him that he may write without restrictions. (Continued, 1931.)

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—(By Mail.) I WISH it were true that the G. P. U. assigned a lynx-eyed detective or two to trail me. It would be a great help when I get lost or don't know which bus or train line takes me back to the hotel to ask him in a friendly way, "Which car do we take, brother?"

I wish one of the Russian secret service sleuths were with me on trips to show me which track the train is on, and which is my car and to hurl the family of mujiks, who have pre-empted my seat, out into the corridor.

I even wish sometimes, on these long cold evenings (it's even chilly in a 30 ruble a day room) that one of the beautiful, sloe-eyed, vampire lady detectives that they raze about outside, would ray-by-ray take of course—my coat, and then glide in, in sable and ermine, and suggest a bite to eat or a bottle of wine.

I haven't seen any of that yet, not on my former three months' visit, but far on this trip. The G. P. U. perhaps is angry with me. They never even open by mail incoming or outgoing, and Paris advises me daily it receives my copy for relay right on time without a word changed.

Hard to Find Censor.

The toughest thing about the censorship is finding a censor. All dispatches to get press rates by cable and telegraph must have the censor's stamp affixed. The censor reads the dispatch and sometimes suggests a correction in figures or in the text, but usually is indifferent if the correspondent insists on transmitting his own stuff.

The Foreign Office gives foreign correspondents a book to purchase food, wine and cigarettes at the best state shop in town, where the diplomatic corps trades, and also to purchase clothing, shoes, rubbers, furniture, crockery, kitchenware, etc., in the best supplied shop in town.

So all in all, the reporters have no particular kick about the way the Foreign Office handles them, except for the big squawk about finding a censor at night. Frequently the journalists have to track these officials to their lairs in distant flats and rooms, out of bed to stamp a heavy stamp on dispatches. Fortunately these officials are never without their censor stamp, in marked contrast to some of the members of the press bureau of the A. E. F., who went off to advanced headquarters and forgot their rubber stamps, thus necessitating the war correspondents to plunge through the black night for hundreds of kilometers in order to get back to their base and get their copy forwarded to the cable head.

Donnelly Outwits Reds.

Donnelly of Cincinnati was one lad who foisted the Reds. He hopped in to install the sand blast drills in two plants, one here, the other in Leningrad, and when nobody gave him a tumble, he picked up and stepped out with not even a recall order from his home office or a release from the Russian concern in Moscow.

Donnelly got to Berlin on his way to Russia and then heard about sleeping in hotel lobbies, getting no room, difficulty in eating regularly, and other minor worries. So he refused to budge further until Amtors were telegraphed him everything was set to receive him.

On the way he bought a sealskin coat for the wife of an Amtors official, whom he had met in Cincinnati. When his friends warned him he might have to pay heavy duty on it at the frontier, Donnelly calmly put the lady's manteau on and wore it himself.

There was no one to meet the engineer at the Moscow railway station and he was nearly sunk, until a fellow passenger gave him a lift in his sleigh up town and dropped him in the Amtors office. He was promised accommodations, but when evening arrived there was nothing in sight. Donnelly slept on a table in the office. Next day he went to the Amtors plant, where one of his machines was ready to be installed and tested according to blue prints.

But the foundations were not even in.

The engineer didn't waste a minute. He stepped back to the Amtors office, packed his toothbrush, safety razor and comb and hopped a train for Leningrad. There he was to install and test some drums at the Putlloft plant.

They found a room for him in Leningrad but it was in the old part of the huge rambling Europaiska hotel, frequented by "night riders" and other sleep destroyers. Donnelly stepped right out to Putlloft's and, sure enough, the foundations were in. The generator, the motor, the drills and everything was ready for the test. They hooked up the wires and gave the machine the juice, but it went the wrong way—backward. A few deft changes by Donnelly to the Russian engineer.

"Yes," he answered. "We must let the director of the plant see it work."

"Why ain't he here?" said Donnelly. "I wired him I was making the test today. Why didn't he show up?"

Every one shrugged their respective shoulders as only Russians can shrug in cases like that.

"Well, I'm through," said Donnelly, and beat it.

He checked out of the hotel that evening and caught the train for Moscow. Next evening he took the train for Berlin without even an exit visa on his passport.

He turned a lever to shoot the sand issued forth.

"It's probably dirty with bits of wool and things," a Russian engineer commented.

"Get bigger nozzles then," yelled

Donnelly Gets Out.

The Russian suggested they go to lunch, as the tool shop with the other nozzles was a mile and a half away. Donnelly couldn't eat the kasha soup and tough frozen meat, and fretted to get back and finish the test. A few hours later they installed the bigger nozzles and the sand shot out like machine gun bullets.

"I guess that's O. K.," said Donnelly.

P. S. CO. SEEKS TO ABDON

BRIDGETON STREET CAR LINE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.—

The St. Louis Public Service Co. filed applications with the Missouri Public Service Commission to-day for authority to abandon its Bridgeton street car line in St. Louis County and to abandon a part of the Florissant line, St. Louis County, between the town of Florissant and the tracks of the Wabash Railroad. The applications are based on the ground that the lines have been operated at a loss for years.

The applications contain no proposal for substitution of busses or other service.

The Bridgeton line, one and two-tenths miles in length, extends from a connection with the St.

Charles line, at Bridgeton Junction, to the town of Bridgeton. The company contends the revenue from this line is not sufficient to pay the wages of the operators of the cars.

The part of the Florissant line which the company proposes to abandon is three miles in length. This part of the line comprises the second of two fare zones on the line. The application states the compensation to be for the part of the line has been $20,000 a year. The rest of the line, between the Wabash tracks and Ramona Junction, is said to be virtually self-sustaining.

MILITIA KEEPS BACK ALABAMA MOB THREATENING NEGROES Guard Scottsboro Jail, Where Nine Are Held on Complaint of Two White Girls.
By the Associated Press.

SCOTTSBORO, Ala., March 26.—Seventy national guardsmen and the Sheriff, his nine deputies and several citizens today preserved quiet around the jail here, where nine Negroes are held for an alleged attack on two white girls who were riding in a freight car. A mob varied from 300 to 300 menaced the jail last night.

Sheriff Wann said that the Negroes confessed, and Judge J. A. Hawkins announced early call of a grand jury to investigate the case.

The girls, one 17 and one 21, wearing overalls, were riding in the freight car with seven white youths on their way from Chattanooga, Tenn., to Huntsville, Ala. Officers said 12 Negroes boarded the car at Stevenson, Ala., threw the girls out of the train and knocked the other two unconscious.

A posse intercepted the train at Paint Rock and took off nine Negroes, the girls and the injured youths.

THE COLLAR is made with an exclusive interlining (A) whose close, firm texture assures more permanent fit and less wrinkling. Designed by one of Troy's leading collar makers, this collar will retain its shape and size after repeated launderings.

CENTER PLEAT LINING—The strong closely woven fabric (B) used as a lining of the front prevents wrinkling and assures the smoothness after laundering which makes a shirt look, feel and wear as it should.

PLEATED SLEEVES AND BACK give more freedom to the arms and shoulders. The cuff has a double shrunken lining and is made with a smooth, carefully rounded edge.

UNDER CENTER PLEAT LINING—A fine count cambric lining is used here to give the button threads unusually strong support. This lining is stitched down on both sides and the buttons are firmly sewed through.

In broadcloth or oxford—plain colors and white—collars attached. Made the way fine shirts should be made.

CARL SHELTON IS CONVICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Gangster Found Guilty in U. S. Court at Danville, Ill., of Possession and Maintaining Nuisance.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
DANVILLE, Ill., March 26.—Carl Shelton, black-browed East Side gang leader and former Williamson County gunman, was found guilty by a jury in United States District Court here today of possession of liquor and maintenance of nuisance in violation of the Volstead act.

Maximum penalty for possession is a $500 fine and for maintenance of nuisance, a year in jail and fine of $1000. Sentence will be entered later by Judge Lindley.

Shelton was tried again today, before Judge Lindley, on the charge of interstate transportation of a stolen automobile, a felony punishable by imprisonment of 5 years' imprisonment and a $5000 fine. It was the second trial of this case, brought under the Dyer act, a trial in September, 1929, having ended in a jury disagreement.

Auto Theft Case Goes to Jury.

The charge is that Shelton took a Hudson coach stolen in Detroit, after Seburn Page, a gangster, had stolen the car and driven it to East St. Louis, leaving it at the home of Mrs. Josephine Wooten, wife of Fred Wooten, Bliger gangster now serving a life term for murder.

Mrs. Wooten, the principal witness, was called to the witness stand over the questions of Harold Baker, United States District Attorney. By the Court's permission, Baker cross-questioned his own witness a procedure not always permitted. He got the woman to say that she took the car to Carl Shelton's house and that, later, she was told that the car was one which had been stolen and used in the robbery of a truck load of shoes. The case went to the jury in midafternoon.

Shelton's co-defendant in the dry law case, George Martin, was acquitted by the jury which returned its decision in a sealed verdict. The case was based on the arrest of Martin and Shelton last August. Federal agents had tapped the telephone wires to Shelton's home at 649 North Nineteenth street, East St. Louis.

Conversation Over Tapped Wire.

Prohibition agents testified they tapped the wire to Shelton's home in July, hearing all conversations over it. On Aug. 20, they said, they heard a voice they recognized as that of Shelton, calling from a Granite City telephone number to his home where the phone was answered by Roy Baker, a Shelton follower.

"I'll be in pretty quick with that stuff," they quoted Shelton as saying.

A half hour later he called again, they testified, and told Baker he was in a filling station having a tire repaired. At that time, they said, Baker told him: "That fellow was here about the machine gun."

"Well, stick around," they quoted Shelton as saying. "I'll be in about six with a load."

When Shelton drove into his garage that evening he was arrested by waiting agents and relieved of a Mauser automatic pistol. His car contained no liquor, but in the garage the agents found five five-gallon tins of alcohol, the basis of the charge upon which he was convicted.

Shelton offered no defense to the charge, except that his lawyer cross-examined the Government witnesses.

AUTO DEATHS PASS WAR TOLL

50,900 Killed in U. S. in Accidents in Last 18 Months.

TRENTON, N. J., March 26.—Automobile deaths in the United States during the past 18 months totaled 50,900, a report issued by the State Traffic Commission shows. The report said the number exceeded the American death toll of the World War in which 50,510 were killed or died of wounds during 18 months.

In New Jersey, 1251 persons were killed by automobiles in the last 18 months.

LONDON, March 26.—Family jewels and other articles valued at $15,000 were taken by burglars during the night from the home of Lord Stanley of Alderley in Gloucester Square, Bayswater district of London.

Lord Stanley, returning home after an evening out, found his bedroom door locked. He summoned servants and with their aid broke down the door. He found the room pillaged and a ladder of webbing hanging from the third-story window.

STORM IN ROCKY MOUNTAINS

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., March 26.—The Rocky Mountain region was in the grip of a storm today. Henry C. Hollenbeck, National Parks Army pilot, was forced down in a lawn chair south of Steamboat, Idaho. Airplanes of lines operating east and west through Cheyenne, Wyo., were kept on the ground.

Motorists were warned against attempts at travel. One who set out from Cheyenne for Greeley, Colo., last night managed to get through three miles of snow drifts, piled up by a 40-mile-an-hour wind, and then fought for an hour to

PRESIDENT GETS FIRST HAND VIEW OF ISLAND NATION

Carrying Back Fresh Impressions of Problem to Be Met in Port and Virgin Islands

NAP AND TALKIE GUN DRILLS

Battleship Arizona, sailing Through Swells; Hoover to Be at Desk Monday

By the Associated Press
U. S. ARIZONA, March 26—President Hoover is enroute today with fresh conceptional problems which the United States faces in her Caribbean. He has first-hand information.

As he dropped back into his seat after a restful routine aboard the ship, he had pleasant memories of the tremendous reception in Rio and the Virgin Islands, the freshest being that of the Islands, which was almost a year ago.

Probably one of the greatest of his experiences before the President yesterday was the welcome he received from the school children, who sang native scratch bands in a colorful picture of island life. Back aboard the Arizona, he identified it let it be known he enjoyed it all greatly but had difficulty convincing him of that.

An Unusual Parade

In the St. Thomas parade hundred Negro children, immaculately dressed and a band of 100 drums and cymbals followed by aged women platters of vegetables, heads. Milk vendors, the wrapped in colorful bands astride donkeys with the heads. They waved back heartily as the floats representing rum, gold mining and cane industry.

The parades were like a children skipping a rope, causing crowding and confusion as they rushed back through the streets. It required some time for the streets to clear.

May pole dances which followed luncheon at the Tennis Club, featuring the visit. He also number of other points of the island, seeing everywhere of the thrifit and neatness. 22,000 people, only 500 are white.

Gov. Paul M. Pearson said the island had a long conference with Mr. Hoover, but it was nothing of major importance discussed, since the situation was well understood. He knew, however, that withdrawal of the naval detachment planned.

Naps, Dinner and The weather was much as the President wanted a walk before breakfast, a battlefield still was being prepared. The weather reports showed a storm area off the coast was clearing.

The only break in the day was a gun drill, in big 14-inch batteries in position for firing. No fire was because the hypodermic gun was destroyed several miles to the port gun drill was part of down cruise, which has the Arizona up to 1000 tons of the Navy.

If the weather continues to be good, Arizona will arrive at Norfolk Sunday. President hopes to be back home on Monday.

7-1-2 FOOT ANCIENT Sarcophagus of 2900 B.C. Found in Egypt

PHILADELPHIA, March 26—The University of Pennsylvania has announced the return from Egypt of its archaeological collection at the Metropolitan Museum that sarcophagus ever found has been discovered at Gizeh.

The red granite sarcophagus dates to about 2900 B.C. and is approximately seven and a half feet in length, considerably larger than the sarcophagus found in the mid at Gizeh some years ago. "More remains to be done, a feature missing in the case of this sarcophagus,"

Battleship Arizona, Plowing Through Ground Swells; Hoover Expects to Be at Desk Monday.

By the Associated Press.
U. S. ARIZONA, March 26.—President Hoover is enroute home today with fresh conceptions of the problems which the United States faces in her Caribbean territory. He has first-hand information.

As he dropped back into the restful routine aboard the Arizona, he had pleasant memories of tremendous receptions in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, the freshest being that of the Virgin Islands, which was almost frantic.

Probably one of the oddest parades of his experience passed before the President yesterday. He saw vendors, school children and native scratch bands side by side in a colorful picture of insular life. Back aboard the Arizona, the President let it be known he had enjoyed it all greatly but was with difficulty convincing himself it had been real.

An Unusual Parade.

In the St. Thomas parade, several hundred Negro school children, immaculately dressed in white, and a number of native bands of stringed instruments were followed by aged women carrying platters of vegetables on their heads. Milk vendors, their heads wrapped in colorful bandanas, rode astride donkeys with their wares. This waved to the President, and he waved back heartily. Then came floats representing the bay rum, gold mining and the sugar cane industry.

The paraders were like enthusiastic children skipping along, and causing crowding and confusion by rushing back through the streets before the march was ended, so that it required some time before the streets could be cleared for the May pole dances which followed.

Before lunching at Government House, President Hoover planted a tree at the Tennis Club, commemorating his visit. He also visited a number of other points on the island, seeing everywhere evidences of the thrift and neatness of its 22,000 people, only 500 of whom are white.

Gov. Paul M. Pearson of the islands had a long conference with Mr. Hoover, but it was said that nothing of major importance was discussed, since the situation was well understood. It was made known, however, that an early withdrawal of the naval forces, except a radio detachment, was planned.

Naps, Dinner and Talkies.

Immediately after coming aboard the Arizona at St. Thomas yesterday, the President resumed his rest with a nap before a leisurely dinner and talkies on the deck. Throughout last night the ship pitched somewhat in the heavy ground swells. Weather reports then indicated there might be rough seas off the Carolina coast.

The weather was much cooler as the President went on deck for a walk before breakfast today. The battleship still was pitching in ground swells. The morning weather reports showed that the storm area off the Carolina coast was clearing.

The only break in the routine today was a gun drill, in which the big 14-inch battery swung into position for firing. No actual target was the distant de Pont, several miles on the port side. The gun drill was a part of the shake-down cruise, which has proved that the Arizona is up to the expectations of the Navy Department.

If the weather continues moderately good, the Arizona should arrive at Norfolk Sunday. The President hopes to be back in Washington on Monday.

PHILADELPHIA, March 26.—The University of Pennsylvania Museum has announced that a report from Alan R. Ross, field director of its archaeological expedition at Meidum, stated that the largest sarcophagus ever found in Egypt had been discovered at Meidum.

The red granite sarcophagus, which dates to about 2900 B. C., is approximately seven and one-half feet in length, considerably larger than the sarcophagus of Cheops, found in the great pyramid at Gizeh some years ago, Rome reported. STATE COULD NOT REVOKE
WATERPOWER LICENSE UNDER
BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

Measure, in Effect, Gives Title to Site for 50 Years, or Indefinitely; Other Provisions Analyzed—Senate Passage Doubtful.

By BOYD F. CARROLL,
Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.—The water-power regulation bill now pending in the Legislature, which was designed to remedy the lack of State laws on the subject and to safeguard rights of the State in development of its water-power resources by private interests, is so drawn that the 50-year license authorized by the act, in effect, would give the licensee complete title to water-power sites for that period, because there is no provision for revocation of a license, once issued.

The bill was passed by the House yesterday by a vote of 53 to 24, and now goes to the Senate. Passage of the bill by the Senate is doubtful, because of the crowded condition of the Senate calendar and some opposition to the measure in the Upper House. A duplicate of the House bill introduced in the Senate never has got out of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and may die there.

Commission Is Created.

The State waterpower commission that would be created by the bill would have authority to issue licenses to power companies for development of waterpower at designated sites for periods not to exceed 50 years, with the right to renew the licenses upon expiration of the 50 years.

The bill would require the licensee to agree to abide by provisions of the act, but contains no provisions for revocation of a license. This, in effect, would give the power company receiving a license for a waterpower site title to the site, the same as at that point for a period of 50 years or indefinitely, if renewals of the license were granted.

The bill contains a provision authorizing the State to acquire such projects, but the right is subject to two definite restrictions. One of these is that the Constitution would have to be amended to give the State the right to acquire such a project. The other is that the State, if it acquired the constitutional power, could not purchase the project until after the expiration of 50 years after the effective date of the license. These provisions place no effective limitation upon the opportunity for a power company to obtain an irrevocable title to waterpower resources of the State.

Licenses for power projects on navigable streams now are issued by the Federal Power Commission, subject to certain requirements as to compliance by the applicant with laws of the State in which the power site is located. Missouri has no laws on such matters.

The Public Service Commission law requires a power company to obtain a certificate of convenience and necessity from the Public Service Commission for the construction and operation of a power plant and distribution and sale of the electric energy generated, but this certificate relates to the operation as a public utility.

The Commission now has no authority over waterpower and there is no State agency authorized to grant or withhold State consent to acquisition by private interest of the State's waterpower resources. The bill under discussion would vest that authority in the new commission.

The Governor's Suggestion.

In his message to the Legislature, Gov. Caulfield called attention to the lack of adequate State laws on waterpower and suggested legislation to protect the rights of the State and to give it a voice in acquisition of its natural resources by private interests. Preparation of a bill was left to Attorney-General Sharlet by the Governor.

The bill prepared by Attorney-General Sharlet was introduced in the House on March 10. The bill passed yesterday was a committee substitute prepared by the House Judiciary Committee, which modifies the original bill. One of the principal changes was elimination of retroactive sections providing for licensing of hydro-electric power plants already built and in operation.

The purchase provisions, if the State ever could exercise them, are more favorable to the companies than to the State. The bill would authorize the State, subject to its having gained the constitutional power, to acquire all the property of the waterpower licensee, by paying the cost of reproduction of the power plant structure and equipment in their then existing condition, as determined by the commission, plus the value of the dam site and all flowage rights and other property, as determined by the commission before the license was issued.

This purchase right also would be subject to the prior right of the Federal Government to acquire the project, if on a navigable stream, that right was reserved in the Federal license issued for the project. Federal licenses for waterpower projects usually contain a recapture clause.

HOME OF JEFFERSON DAVIS ON MISSISSIPPI RIVER BURNS

House Given President of Confederacy Twice by Brother; Once Confiscated by Federal Army.

By the Associated Press.

VICKSBURG, Miss., March 26.—Word reached here today of the burning last Friday of Brierfield, the home of Jefferson Davis, on Palmyra Island, 30 miles south of Vicksburg, in the Mississippi River.

The house was built in 1847 by Joe Davis, who gave it to his brother, Jefferson Davis, upon the latter's return from the Mexican War.

The plantation was composed of 2380 acres. Six hundred acres were added to the property through the purchase of a sand bar.

In 1863 the Federal army in the Civil War confiscated the property and sold it at public auction. It was purchased by Joe Davis, who again presented it to Jefferson Davis upon his release from Fortress Monroe and return to Mississippi.

Here the former president of the Confederacy contracted the illness that caused his death.

The home was built of solid cypress. A spark from the chimney prevented the roof ablaze.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, March 26.—With Spain's eleven universities closed by Government order to prevent further uprisings, Republican students conducted new demonstrations in Madrid and Zaragoza today. Heavy police patrols guarded this city.

Several hundred girls, laborers from the San Carlos district to the royal palace, demanding King Alfonso's abdication and shouting their desire for a republic.

Withholding their fire, the police broke up the procession with jured and 10 were arrested.

Our Confusion of Parties.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

INDIVIDUALISTS of both political parties are in a bad predicament from the confusion of Hamiltonian, Jeffersonian and socialistic principles in both the Republican and Democratic parties. Unless each party cleanses its Augean stables, it will eventually ruin both of these great parties of the past—for the present political misrepresentation of the voters, as suggested by Dr. Butler, cannot continue much longer.

Either of two methods can be followed: namely, the formation right now of a third party under a call to all Jeffersonians, both Lincoln Republicans and Jeffersonian Democrats, with positive notice that neither Republican or Democratic Hamiltonians or Republican so-called Progressives or Bryan Democrats will be admitted to the convention (which will keep out the "isms" in its platforms), or the Democratic Jeffersonians can make a determined effort at the next convention to turn back the party to the fundamental principles of Thomas Jefferson.

The Hamiltonians now have control of the Republican party, thanks to one of its wings being socialistic, and the Socialists (for Bryan was at heart a Socialist) seem to have control of the Democratic party, as the late President Wilson's followers are Hamiltonians.

It would be simple for the sane and loyal Jeffersonian party to solve all of our major problems of prohibition, the tariff, the trusts, paternalism, etc. Now is the time for great men or a great man to arise and lead us individualists out of our political wilderness, such as James A. Reed of Missouri, Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of New York or a dozen more fundamental Jeffersonians of force and courage that might be mentioned.

Personally, I would prefer the cleansing of the Democratic party. Why not invite all Lincoln Republicans to join the Democratic party? Lincoln was fundamentally a true Jeffersonian, for the tariff was not a Jeffersonian fundamental. Jefferson merely said that so long as America was an agricultural country, as it was in his time, free trade was better for it.

Now is the time for voters, whose party loyalty is founded on sound principles, to begin a movement to wrest the control of their party from fetish worshippers of a party name and mere office seekers. Principles, not men, as Jefferson said!

CAMPBELL CUMMINGSON.

Revolt Against Ralph Sewer Law.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE taxpayers of St. Louis County are in open revolt over the grafting Ralph sewer law. The Senate has failed to take any action to remedy the evils of this law, and we know now that direct annexation with the City of St. Louis is our only weapon. Under the 1924 annexation law, we are entitled to a board of freeholders and a vote on the proposition this year, and as matters now stand, nine-tenths of the taxpayers of St. Louis County will vote for annexation, in order to prevent confederacy of our property, to join hands with the city.

RALPH SEWER VICTIM.

Mr. Napier's Candidacy.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

M. R. NAPIER, a candidate for election to the Board of Education, charges that the St. Louis teachers are strong in their opposition to him and decree what he terms their "political activity." If I am not mistaken, Mr. Napier supported the now deceased one-year tenure bill, the hidden object of which was to introduce the political spoils system into the teaching division of the St. Louis schools. And Mr. Napier denied political activity!

Further, Mr. Napier opposed the residence of a number of teachers in suburban districts. As Socrates—or was it Mark Twain?—said, "No man is greater than the smallest of his actions." Mr. Napier pointed through seems particularly appropriate in Mr. Napier's case. So far as he have been able to discover, his chief crime was writing the teachers to live in St. Louis. The fact that many of them have opposed annexation in their desire to live in settlement decently free from the bungling machinations of the St. Louis city government. For this they should be punished, reasons Mr. Napier; they make their money here, they should pay their taxes here. Political talent is indispensable, and Mr. Becker has it. The Legislature may not feed out of his hand, but it pretty regularly does what he wants done and refuses to do what he objects to.

Mr. Becker is not the first Secretary of State to become a quasi-dictator at Jefferson City. He is now serving his third term as Secretary of State, and has assembled a pie-cutter machine which practically assures his renomination. With this certainty of tenure Becker has grown, officially and extra-officially, until he is recognized as the most powerful individual influence in the legislative department of the State. No man, to be sure, could attain that stature by the plums at his disposal. Political talent is indispensable, and Mr. Becker has it. The Legislature may not feed out of his hand, but it pretty regularly does what he wants done and refuses to do what he objects to.

I shall vote against Mr. Napier and shall urge all of my friends to follow my action, not because I have any connection with any group of teachers, but because I mistrust a man whose platform is one of negativity and who is so narrow in his reasoning. H. J. F.

MR. NEUN'S REACTIONARY STAND.

It would be hard for anyone running for office not to heed the agitation against special taxation for improvements of city-wide benefit. Like many of the aldermanic candidates, Mr. Neun has unfortunately succumbed to it. Mr. Neun says:

We are opposed to the present method of making and taking a district for major improvements. I contend that such improvements, especially in this automobile age, are not local or community affairs, but city-wide benefits, and should be paid for by all citizens through a more just and equitable method than now prevails.

For years St. Louis has followed the practice of placing the cost of improvements upon the district improved. Until the election of last fall, when considerable political capital was made over the tax bills incident to the Gravois widening, little fault was found with it. Whoever started the protest against the Gravois widening bills was flogging a dead dummy, because the case had already been settled by the courts; but the repercussions of the Gravois protest are being heard in other improvement projects, and, unless checked, may wreck them.

To pay taxes is one of the ills that flesh is heir to and resistance to them is only natural. Yet we think that St. Louis voters, once they give dispassionate study to the question of financing improvements, would agree that the St. Louis system should not be discarded. It is undeniably true and can be proved mathematically, that the districts in which improvements are made are the beneficiaries of higher property values. Such an improvement as the Gravois widening does benefit the whole city, but its immediate and most easily ascertainable benefit goes to the Gravois district. The special tax bills which this district has paid for the widening will prove to be a heavy load upon the waters.

There are, it is true, other systems of financing public improvements. Milwaukee, for example, has financed its improvements by city-wide taxes, with the result that politicians have concentrated these improvements in certain favored localities, with a supreme contempt for the needs of the city as a whole. Aroused at last by this exhibition of favoritism, tinctured by corruption, Milwaukee is now endeavoring to apply the system used in St. Louis. In Cincinnati, where 50 per cent of improvements have been paid out of city-wide taxes, that system has proved to be unworkable and Cincinnati is now looking to St. Louis for guidance.

It is not for many things that St. Louis is accepted as a model by other cities, yet one of our few distinctions is now in danger because Mr. Neun and other candidates for office lend themselves to a clamor that is more noisy than reasonable. No better plan than the one we have been suggested, unless it is that we put our head in the same noose from which Milwaukee is endeavoring to free herself. The only strength the agitation has comes from people who will soon be asked to pay for improvements in their districts, for which they will be proportionately benefited. They would have the city abandone midstream policy which has not been proved unfair or unreasonable.

If the city does depart from its special tax policy it will be unfair to the taxpayers in the Gravois district, in the Olive district and elsewhere, who have paid for their own improvements and would be asked to help pay for improvements in parts of the city remote from them. Mr. Neun and other candidates would cut a better figure in refusing to lend themselves to a movement demagogic in origin and calculated, if successful, to delay for an indefinite period the creation of a well planned St. Louis.

NEWS REEL.

Massachusetts statistics show women are safer drivers than men, and Pittsburgh man is knocked down twice in same block by same woman driver; dog at Mechanicsville, N. Y., barks warning of lighted dynamite bomb, saving master's life, and dog at Hartford City, Ind., intoxicated on mash, leads officers to still, sending master to jail; unemployed Denver man gets $100,000 bequest at death of wealthy aunt, and auto of blind beggar at Houston, Tex., is stolen; Lafayette, Ga., girl, 17, is fined $10 for slapping teacher, and Chicago teacher is fined $10 for slapping boy; Leslie I. Steinbach, 22, becomes head of Central Normal College, Danville, Ind., and Chase S. Osborn, 71, ex-Governor of Michigan, enrolls as student at Purdue University; Isle of Man has had nine divorces in last 50 years, and Hollywood reports 133 marriages in movie colony in last three years have resulted in 98 divorces; Rudy Vallee goes on tour, and U. S. Department of Agriculture reports increase in demand for grapefruit.

MR. BECKER WINS AGAIN.

Mr. Becker wins again. Thanks to 18 Democrats who were either absent or not voting, the bill introduced by Representative Hammert to take the printing patronage out of the Secretary of State's office was beaten in the House. In order to remain true to Becker the 18 Democrats had to bolt their caucus mandate, and bolt it they did. They were encouraged in their violation of party discipline by Democratic editors whom Becker remembers when passing out the printing pap.

The Hammert bill proposed to place the matter of awarding the printing of constitutional amendments in the county courts. Objections to that plan were not convincing. But even if it were true, as one loyal Becker feared, that "stingy" county courts would cut the price to the bone and liberal Judges would err on the generous side, the fact remains that it would cure a condition manifestly contrary to sound public policy.

By reason of the printing patronage Becker has secured what is beginning to look like a life job at Jefferson City. He is now serving his third term as Secretary of State, and has assembled a pie-cutter machine which practically assures his renomination. With this certainty of tenure Becker has grown, officially and extra-officially, until he is recognized as the most powerful individual influence in the legislative department of the State. No man, to be sure, could attain that stature by the plums at his disposal. Political talent is indispensable, and Mr. Becker has it. The Legislature may not feed out of his hand, but it pretty regularly does what he wants done and refuses to do what he objects to.

Mr. Becker is not the first Secretary of State to become a quasi-dictator at Jefferson City; but he is the peer, if not the superior, of any of his accomplished predecessors. As a political phenomenon he is an interesting specimen. As a factor in the government of Missouri he is a liability. The Secretary of State's office ought to be de-Beckerized, and the patronage of his office, or of any State office in which the incumbent may succeed himself indefinitely, should be so reduced as to make Beckerism impossible.

RECOVERY THROUGH FOREIGN TRADE.

Studying statistics showing that international commerce fared not at all badly last year despite world-wide economic disturbances, the National Foreign Trade Council is moved to anticipate that "it is our foreign trade that is going to lead the way to recovery." The value of goods passing in foreign trade in 1930 was 27 billion dollars, a decline of about 6½ billions, or 25 per cent, from 1929. On rectifying these figures for price reductions, it is found that the actual decline in volume was only 10 per cent. Consultation as to the means of leading the way to recovery through this field of commerce will be the chief business of the Trade Council's convention, which opens in New York May 27.

The possibilities of foreign trade are tremendous. This country has factories, mills, mines and fields, with skilled personnel in every class, ready to supply the needs of foreign nations, waiting only on orders to end enforced idleness and start production. American products had attained a commanding position in the world economy before the slump came, and they will retain that ascendancy when business is resumed. Vast fields as yet are undeveloped by our commerce. With hopes of peace in India from the Gandhi-Irwin agreement, with a cessation of civil war in China, the door to Asia's teeming millions may soon swing open. Development of South and Central America is still in its infancy. The upbuilding of Russia creates a heavy demand for American goods.

Yet there are many obstacles to be removed before our foreign trade can develop to its greatest potentialities. Our own tariff wall is one of them. Drafted with misguided zeal to protect certain domestic industries, it has resulted in reprisals and embargoes that have cut drastically into our export total. Europe seemingly has realized the illogic of tariff barriers, to judge by the interest in the Briand plan, the Austro-German customs truce and other proposals. This open discussion indicates that the Continent is beginning to think in constructive terms.

Other international considerations also enter into the matter. How can Europe buy from us to the extent of her needs while she struggles under the burden of reparations and war debts? How can our industries make the most of Russian opportunities while handicapped by the State Department's restrictions? How can business men build good will in Latin America while our Government continues its policy of interference and near-imperialism? To rebuild toward prosperity, there must be stable markets abroad to consume our goods, and in return we must buy foreign products which our needs demand. How this may be done in the face of present problems will be the question confronting the Trade Council in laying its plans for revival of foreign commerce and of domestic prosperity.

AN OLD-FASHIONED PHILANTHROPY.

A bill before New York's Legislature proposes the purchase and restoration of the old farm at Babcock Hill, near Bridgewater, N. Y., as an agricultural memorial to Dr. Stephen Moulton Babcock, inventor of the Babcock test for butter fat in milk, who was born there 87 years ago. While Dr. Babcock's generosity in refusing to patent his invention and its consequent easy access to dairymen everywhere earned him good will that is its own best memorial, there would be a peculiar fitness in preserving his birthplace for scientific agricultural experimentation.

Dairymen who provide cities with milk are busy men and cannot much be given to trips of pilgrimage. If they were, the farm at Babcock Hill would be a worthy shrine. In the development of this leading industry no name figures more prominently than that of the veteran benefactor who as a boy carried milk pails across the barn lot before daylight in the winter-time.

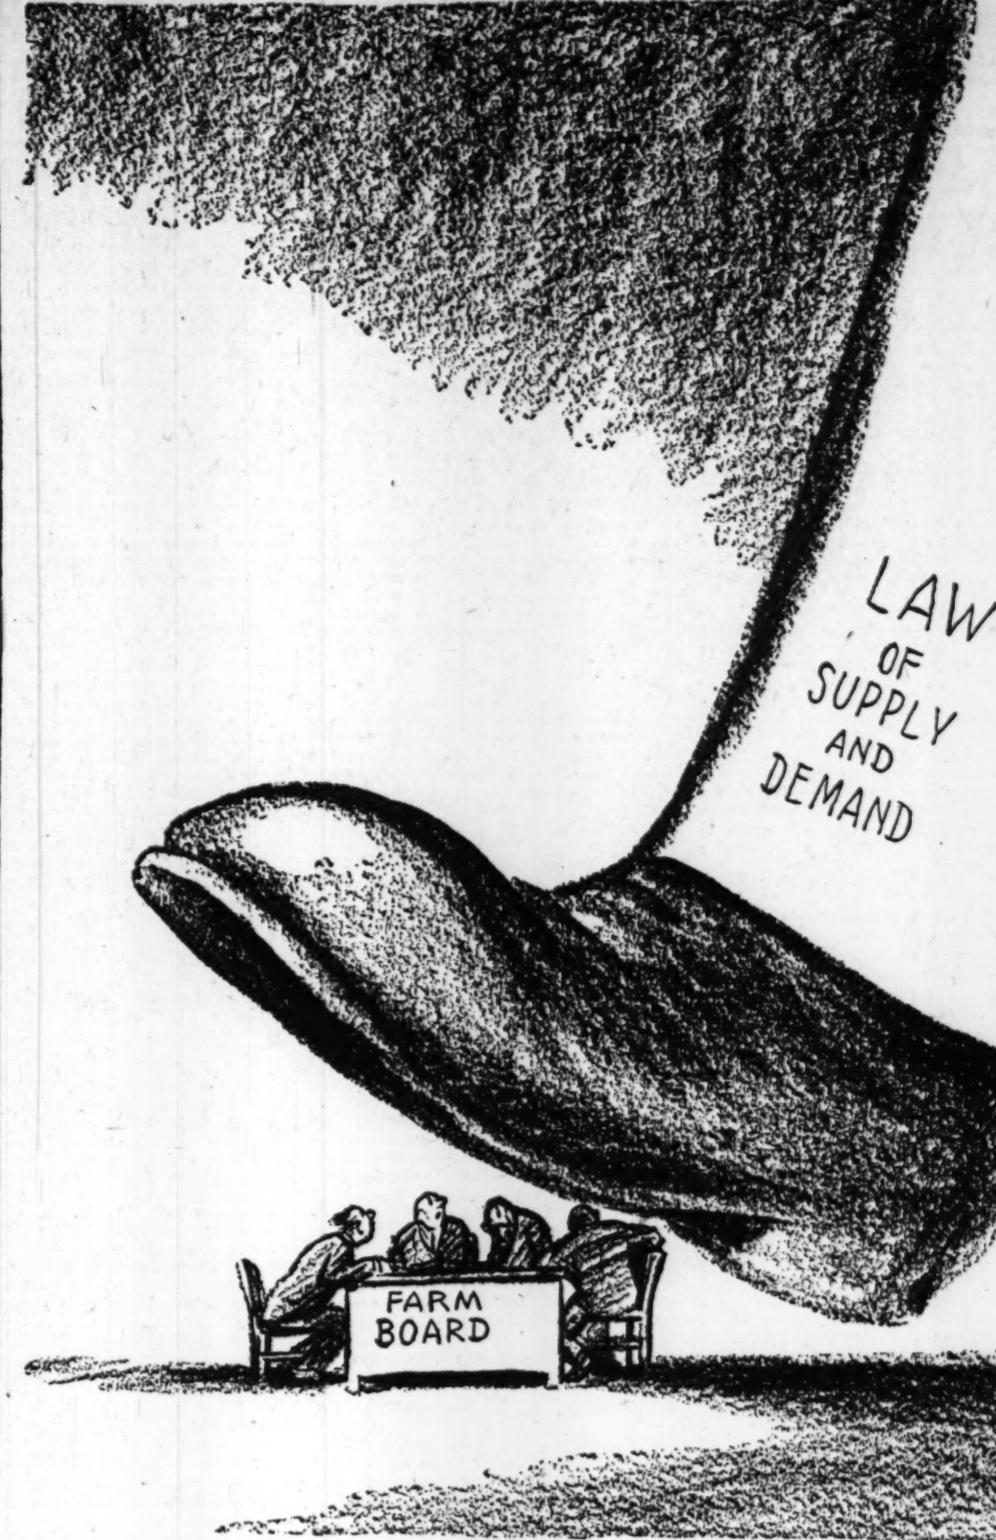

A MISSOURIAN IN A TOGA.

A handsome compliment has been paid former Senator Reed by Sculptor Borglum, who is doing a bust of the distinguished Missourian. "Those features belong to Greece or Rome," he avers. "That man could wear a toga." And the reincarnationists, we venture, are sure he did wear a toga, though there might be a difference of opinion as to whose toga he wore. A poll of the house would possibly show a majority for Cicero, between whom and Reed there are striking points of temperamental resemblance. Certainly the Roman talked well, and, certainly, too, he loved to talk. The tattered old text books attest that, and the Congressional Record bears the same witness to the American. But when we look at the 80 villas of Cicero and the one comfortable, though unpretentious, abode of Senator Reed at Kansas City, we cannot visualize the two under the same family tree. Cato is a likelier candidate, it seems to us. There was a hater. True, he was not beheaded by the variety of abomination with which Brother Reed has verbally grappled. Indeed, he might be called a one-aversion Senator, but within his limitation he was steadfast beyond compare. The first phrase Cato lisped as an infant was the last words his dying lips uttered—delecta est Carthago. And while this may him no line of consanguinity from the Tiber to the Kaw, it warrants the verdict, perhaps, that there was Reedesque touch in Cato, even as there is a Catoeic flair in Reed.

NEWS FROM THE MILL TOWNS.

Anouncement by the heads of 40 textile mills at Charlotte, N. C., that the elimination of night work by women and children is now an established policy in practically all carded yarn mills will come as good news to everyone who puts human welfare above the acquisition of wealth. There have been few sorrier stories in the United States during recent months than the continuous outpouring of dispatches from Southern mill towns telling of hardship and suffering among the workers. Killing, hunger, eviction and floggings all too turn up in writing the tragic account. One well known writer said the condition of mill workers was worse than that of Negroes in slavery. Thus news so different as that contained in the Charlotte dispatch is more welcome. Let us hope a new day is dawning in the Southern textile industry. If so, another victory has been won by that two-edged sword which Woodrow Wilson called "pitiless publicity."

Even in normal times the problem of an acceptable standard of life is not easily solved. There are 450 persons to each square mile of the island's area, which means that population dangerously crowds the food supply, since the local activities are almost entirely agricultural. But since

SOMETHING BIGGER THAN AN ACT OF CONGRESS.

Mr. Hoover's Visit to Porto Rico

President found island well on its way in transition from Spanish colony to modern outpost of U. S.; trade has grown twelvefold since 1901; dense population, suffering from economic depression, has many problems, however; wide unemployment, lack of food, low crop prices and other forms of distress demand speedy attention.

By Chester Lloyd Jones, Director School of Commerce, University of Wisconsin

FORTY-SEVEN hundred miles from New York and about a thousand from Florida lies Porto Rico, the first American possession in the Caribbean Sea. It was the first acquired, coming to us as a result of conquest in the Spanish-American War. It is first in size and first in the number of its inhabitants. This week it was visited by the President of the United States, the second time in the generation since the island has been under the American flag that it has had that honor. President Roosevelt made a short stay there in 1905.

When the battleship that carried President Hoover steamed into the harbor of San Juan many looked almost as they must have looked to his predecessor a quarter century ago. But the conditions seen by the two presidential visitors bear strong contrast. When President Roosevelt visited the island, San Juan just then had gained from a selected Spanish colonial capital to a modern American town. The streets and roads, since a point of pride with the islanders, were still only beginning to reflect their present development. Health activities were only getting under way; three-fourths of the population was still illiterate.

The trade passing into and out of the island had only begun the spectacular climb from $17,000,000 of 1901 to the high point of almost $200,000,000, the average of recent normal years. The people of the island, too, were still adjusting themselves to the new realities which followed the transfer of sovereignty to the United States.

The conditions which President Hoover found in the island stand in strong contrast to these. The capital showed its fine modern buildings, its well kept streets, its modern schools. It gave him an enthusiastic American citizens of the island. But the changes do not distract the attention of the visitor from the changes in the economic less satisfactory. They do not obscure the evidence that Porto Rico is passing through a period of economic distress which has lasted now into its third year and which in acuteness equals, and perhaps exceeds, that of the depression of 1929.

The local authorities have not been inactive in seeking to help themselves. Relief on the part of the poor classes has already been undertaken on a wide scale. Projects are under way with the active support of the Governor to provide emergency employment and to introduce new industries which may both reduce the dependence of the population on imported foodstuffs and increase the industrial products which may be exported.

It is evident, however, that all such efforts are inadequate to meet the situation which has come with the breakdown of the principal foodstuffs, the staple money crops. General outside assistance will be necessary until normal conditions are re-established, if serious impairment of the physical stamina of the population is to be avoided.

At this time, when drought and unemployment have so greatly increased the need of assistance to our fellow citizens in continental United States and when the public conscience has been roused to realization of that need, let us not overlook the urgent needs of 1,500,000 Americans in Porto Rico. Their distress is not brought to home to us, because it arises a thousand miles off the coast. But it is as poignant, more poignant, than any in any equal area on the mainland. This is an occasion that brings us the obligation and opportunity to prove by our response that there are no "other Americans."

EVEN KANSAS HAS LEARNED THIS. From the Topeka State Journal.

THE Supreme Court has upheld the liquor law again. The country is pretty well convinced, now, as to the quality of the law. But something should be done about the liquor.

WASHINGTON, March 26.

GAIN John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the presidency in 1924, finds himself in the role of legal representative for a branch of Congress. This time he will represent the Senate in what promises to be a spectacular fight between that body and President Hoover over the right of Chairman Smith of the Power Commission to his office. Twice before he has acted for the House.

This white-haired West Virginian with the candid eyes, projecting chin and easy smile still is recalled in the minds of many in all parts of the country. Celebrated is the remark of former Chief Justice Edward Douglass White concerning him: "The Supreme Court thinks as much of John Davis that when he appears for the Government, the other side hardly gets 'due process of law.'"

He is recognized generally as one of the country's ablest lawyers.

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Poet of Great Power

ADAMASTOR. Poems by Roy Campbell. (Lincoln) MacVeagh, The Dial Press, New York City. $2.00.

NO ONE who is familiar with contemporary literature and knows what poetry is, can read even a half-dozen pages of this collection without realizing that Roy Campbell, the young South African, has more of the authentic lighting in him than has any other poet of his generation now publishing in the English-speaking world. We have been led to suppose that ours is an era of great poetic activity and achievement. Since the so-called "Poetic Renaissance" began about 13 years ago, it is probable that more verse has been written than in all previous history, and no wonder; for somehow it got noticed abroad that poetry, presumably monopolized by the "highbrows" in former times, had succumbed to the spirit of modern improvement and had been thoroughly democratized so that anybody could qualify for the bardic succession. Anybody did; and much of the verse now most extravagantly praised—some of it even offered to defenseless school children as worthy of study—is certain to strike the next fully sane age as all but incredibly funny.

The fact is that poetry is at least as rare in our day as in any other; perhaps much rarer in proportion to population. Fine poets have not produced, certainly not in surprising numbers; and so, if one knows what one means, the realization that genuine poetry has actually happened again is still a matter for surprise and wonder.

It is hardly to be regarded as an accident that Roy Campbell has developed far from the great centers of our civilization; and there is a quality in his poetry that simply is not to be felt in the work of even the best of the modern poets who have come under the influence of the megalopolitan consciousness.

The only way to know what is meant here is to read the man's work; and, even so, the meaning may not emerge unless the reader is fairly familiar with the indubitably great poets of all time and of no time.

If there is anything to regret, for the moment at least, about this tremendous young poet, it is that his poetic fire is engrossed by temporary personal resentments. But even this fact may be gloriously justified in a large impersonal way before he ceases to sing; and it is no wonder that a powerful, sensitive and essentially noble spirit, not yet old in the world, should be maddened by what it sees and so be driven into the indefensible attitude of hatred for human things.

The title of the volume is taken from the "Lusitao" of Camoens, "Adamastor" being therein the Spirit of the Cape whose apparition and prophecy form one of the famous passages of the Portuguese epic.

ALEXANDER. By Klaus Mann. (Brewer & Warren, Inc., New York City. $2.00.)

Klaus Mann, son of Thomas Mann, Nobel Prize winner, must be one of the most remarkable young novelists of our time. Four years ago, his first book, "Kindernovelle," was published over here under the title "The Fifth Child." He was then 21 years old; but that was not surprising, since little girls of 10 and 12 may get by with full-length novels. The surprising thing is that at the age of 25 and in a time much given to hysterical overemphasis, he should reveal such a remarkable ability to control himself as is in the present story of the great Macedonian conqueror. It is, of course, a great story that he has to tell; but the quiet simplicity with which he tells it does not, for many pages, allow the reader to realize what mood-building is in progress under the serene surface of the tale. The author seems so much at peace in the consciousness of his power that he is genuinely employed in the service of the people. The Wendel will only disclose in an emphatic way what is constantly being done in our country.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 26.

ANOTHER epic so characteristic of our country has just been published in the will of the late Ella Wendel. She has left a fortune estimated at well over $75,000,000, almost entirely to charity. It took three generations of thrift, industry and intelligence to accumulate this property. Now it is to be distributed with the sole purpose of attempting to benefit the people. It goes to the people.

Under the laws and customs of the United States there is little cause to fear the power of wealth. Occasionally there are those who abuse it chiefly to their own harm.

Accumulated wealth is one of the foundations of our progress. Distributed per capita it would be ineffective. In accumulation it supports our industries, raises the standard of living, and endows educational, religious and charitable institutions. Almost all the time we find it genuinely employed in the service of the people. The Wendel will only disclose in an emphatic way what is constantly being done in our country.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

GEN. AND MRS. WILLIAM H. COCKE of Clermont Manor, Va., formerly of St. Louis, are entertaining a group of St. Louisans at a house party on their estate. In the party are Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence Mauran, 46 Vandeventer place; Mrs. L. Warrington Baldwin, 23 Wernerton place, and Mrs. George W. Niedringhaus, 10 Wernerton place. Mrs. Baldwin will return from a cruise with their host and hostess on their yacht. Mrs. Baldwin will visit relatives in Savannah, Ga., and will return to Virginia to accompany Mrs. Niedringhaus to St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauran and their daughter, Mrs. Charles Mullikin, have been spending several weeks in New York, where they were joined by another daughter, Mrs. William Van Voes Warren of Boston. Mrs. Mullikin will return home tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Singleton, 37 Washington terrace, returned home yesterday after a Mediterranean cruise of several weeks. They landed Tuesday in New York on the Ile de France. Their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Singleton, returned to St. Louis Tuesday, after a visit to Del Monte, Cal., as the guest of Miss Geraldine Flint, a former classmate in Paris. She and her sister, Miss Susie Singleton, spent the winter in Honolulu. Miss Susie Singleton returned home a week ago.

ANALYSIS OF SAUSAGE CITY BOUGHT IS FOUND

Director Salisbury Says It Shows 53 Pct. Water and 8 Pct. Cereal Were Used.

The report of a chemical analysis of pork sausage sold to eleemosynary institutions of the city, which disclosed the presence of cereal and water, was found by Director of Public Welfare Salisbury today, who said yesterday he had mislaid it. Salisbury, however, would not permit a Post-Dispatch reporter to examine the report, which was made at his request by a chemist in his department.

Consulting it, he said that the percentages of adulteration mentioned yesterday—53 per cent of water and 8 per cent of cereal—were reversed. "This report," he said, "shows that in one sample there was 53 per cent of water and 8 per cent of cereal."

The analysis, Salisbury said, was made from three samples taken from city institutions. Feb. 17. At that time Laclede Packing Co. had the contract for supplying sausage to the city at $8.35 a hundred pounds for bulk sausage and $9.85 a hundred for link sausage. Salisbury would not say whether bulk or link sausage was examined by the chemist.

Doubts Accuracy of Report.

A. G. Ackermann, president of the Laclede company, said today he questioned the accuracy of the chemist's report. "We use from 5 to 8 per cent of cereal and from 15 to 20 per cent of water in our sausage," he said, "but I can't imagine how sausage could be made that would be more than half water." The water, he explained, was added in the form of ground ice, to preserve the meat.

Comptroller Nolte said today he would have a bill ready for presentation to the Board of Aldermen at its next session, starting late in April, which would authorize the Comptroller to appoint those in charge of storing of supplies at the various institutions. The measure, he said, would provide a means of determining whether the city receives the quantity and quality of supplies it pays for.

The quality of sausage bought by the city became a matter for question through the campaign conducted by packing plants inspected by the Federal Government to encourage the use of Government-inspected meats. P. E. Burton, secretary of the committee formed for that purpose, said Salisbury's statement, having said that analysis of three samples of sausage sold to the city showed that the best of the three contained 25 per cent of cereal and 7 per cent of added water.

Packers Complain.

Government-inspected packers, who are paid 1 cent more than 15 per cent of cereal and 8 per cent of water to their sausage, have complained that they could not compete with uninspected establishments for the city business because of these restrictions. One inspected house, however, the Hell Packing Co., obtained the contract for link sausage last week at $8.40 a hundred pounds.

In refusing to permit examination of the chemist's report, Salisbury said that his statement quoted by Burton had not been intended for publication. Burton was present on an inspection tour of packing plants being made by the Public Health Committee of the Board of Aldermen, which is considering a municipal inspection bill, when Salisbury told the Aldermen of the result of the analysis.

"I am satisfied," Salisbury said today, "for a further opportunity to look into the matter. When I have done that, probably I will recommend that the city specify in its contracts the amount of cereal and water which may be added to sausage." There are no specifications in the present contract, bids being asked simply for sausage.

The contracts let last week are for three months. The Laclede Packing Co. again obtained the contract for bulk sausage at $7.25 a hundred pounds. The Hell Packing Co., which obtained the link sausage contract, is one of the few Government-inspected establishments which have bid successfully on city contracts.

Efforts were made to reduce operating expenses by the extension of the company's operation of cars, and by suits for review of the company's tax assessments. The general property tax bills against the company in St. Louis and St. Louis County totaled $1,150,025, but the company paid only $702,220, withholding the balance pending hearing of its suits for review.

Trackage Decreased.

The Fourth street, Marcus and Spalding lines were abandoned and service was given either by rerouting other lines or by busses. There was a net decrease of 2.77 miles in the company's trackage, eight-tenths of a mile being added and 3.57 miles removed.

Although damage claims increased, the number of accidents was 21.8 per cent less than the year before. The number of 1920 was 18,712, and in 1923 it was 20,011.

ROBBER GETS $360 IN FOUR HOLDUPS

Negro With Pistol and Handbag Invades Drugstores and Two Autos.

A Negro armed with a rusty automatic pistol and carrying a patent leather handbag obtained $360 in four holdups, forced his way into three machines, and fired a shot at a majorist who shamed him off the running board. The Negro was seated in his car at Clara and Ridge avenues, with Paul Russell of Pine Lawn, when the Negro stopped in front of Russell to alight and directed Jones to drive to Union boulevard and Theodosius avenue, where he got out without molesting Jones.

The last reported appearance of the robber was at 8:10 o'clock, when he forced his way into the machine of Edward Grunfelder, 4465 Delor street, who was parked in front of 4447 Northland avenue. Ordering Miss Madeline Griffin, the cashier, and a customer to lie on the floor, the robber forced Thomas Ruffing, assistant manager, to open the safe. The robber fled to Julian avenue and jumped on the running board of the machine of Joseph Parker, 4436 Holly avenue. Parker promptly pushed him off, and the robber fired a shot at the machine, but missed.

William Jones, 5229 Lotus avenue, was seated in his car at Clara and Ridge avenues, with Paul Russell of Pine Lawn, when the Negro stopped in front of Russell to alight and directed Jones to drive to Union boulevard and Theodosius avenue, where he got out without molesting Jones.

The last reported appearance of the robber was at 8:10 o'clock, when he forced his way into the machine of Edward Grunfelder, 4465 Delor street, who was parked at 7:15 o'clock the robber, distinguished by a small mustache, ordered cigarettes in a drug store at 922 Belt avenue, then pointed a pistol at Oscar L. Crumley, clerk, and two customers, and forced Crumley to transfer $25 from the cash register to the black bag.

Running from the store the robber jumped on a truck of the Taylor Cleaning Co., forcing the driver, Robert Geraghty, to take him to Page house, where he robbed him of $15. "Have a little more, next time, because I am going to take you again," the Negro caressed Geraghty.

While police scout cars were speeding to the scene of the first holdup the Negro was taking $305 from the safe and cash register at a Wolff-Wilson drug store at 780

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Bayer Aspirin is handy, keeps it in mind, and uses it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuralgia. Any nagging, needless pain.

When VAPEX drops in, your cold drops out

Yet the vapor is as pleasant to breathe as crisp mountain air. Colds don't stay with you long while you breathe Vapex. For Vapex checks a cold swiftly and surely.

Your head gets clear . . . your nose opens up . . . all the distress of a cold disappears with a few deep breaths of this delightful inhalant. And it's as pleasant as breathing pure mountain air.

Another important point to remember about Vapex is that it is safe and easy to use. A drop on your handkerchief or a drop at each end of your pillow is all you need, for the vapor keeps its strength all day or night.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2¢ apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

BILL ALTERING REGISTRATION
IN COUNTY PASSES THE HOUSE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.

—A bill making slight changes in the St. Louis County registration law was passed by the House yes-since the growth of population places the county in a class to which the law under which it had been operating no longer applies.

The Board of Election Commissioners would be composed of four members, two from each political party, appointed by the Governor.

At present there are three. Commissioners would receive only $2000

TELLS OF HUNTING
LIONS IN AUTOMOBILES

Carveth Wells, British Explorer, Finds African Sport Has Become Very Tame.

Carveth Wells, British explorer, arrived in St. Louis today, with stories about the prehistoric land high up in the African Mountains of the Moon, and statements concerning the lack of sport in hunting African game since the automobile and the express rifle have been developed.

"The average big-game hunter who comes to Africa," he said,
"shoots his lions from an automobile.
Why shoot them? You can,
you know."

"Really, I have driven up to a herd of 30 lions, photographed them as much as I wanted to and then actually bumped them with the radiator of the car. You see, lions don't understand automobiles and they don't understand they're going to be hurt until someone stands up and blows their brains out from a distance of 10 yards or less."

"When I was with Martin Johnson, we found there isn't a single animal living on the African plains, except the hyena and the monkey, that you can't drive up to and photograph to your heart's content.
You can't drive up to gorillas because they live at altitudes of 14,- 000 feet and the country is impassable. Elephants live in dense forests, and you can't drive up to them either. But we've frequently driven right up to rhinos. They pay no attention to automobiles.
And the same is true of zebras, wildebeests, or gnus, and all the other animals."

Rhinos and Express Bullets.

"And as for the express rifle, why the bullet is no larger than a man's little finger and I've seen a rhino hit in the head by an express bullet, raised up off his feet and thrown over backward, dead.
A little express bullet will knock a two-and-a-half-ton ox over and over, just like a little puppy."

"The hunters who got mauled in the olden times just didn't have the equipment that every hunter has now. That's one reason animals kill hunters. Another was the strange tactic of life that's been lions. You can shoot a lion in the heart with an explosive bullet that destroys his heart and stops his circulation, and the lion will run a hundred yards and kill a man before he falls."

New Way to Kill Lion.

"But even that can be prevented.
Dr. Crile of Cleveland is the most scientific and one of the greatest hunters to come to Africa. He has killed many lions and dissected them to see just how they died.
And as a result of his research he has developed the Crile shot, as it is known, a shoulder shot that paralyzes the nerves and stops the lion in his tracks."

"I'll come down to this. No animal is wild until someone makes him wild. If you leave him alone, he won't bother you, but if you shoot him and break his leg, he'll try to kill you and the chances are fairly good that he will, if you aren't in an automobile."

Only Real Sport Left.

"The only real sport left in lion hunting is to go out on a horse and chase the lion. He'll run at first, but the lion has a small heart and small lungs. He isn't built for running. He pants after about 10 yards and turns around and jumps on the horse. Then the rider shoots him with a revolver. It's splendid sport, but only the real lion hunters in Africa do it."

PREACHES ON WORK IN PRISON

Former Joliet (Ill.) Chaplain Admits Having Served Term.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 26.—The Rev.
George L. Whitmeyer, who resigned as Episcopal chaplain at the State prison at Joliet, delivered a Lenten lecture at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church last night, frankly admitting he was once in prison himself, and explaining why he had taken up work in the penitentiary.

"I took this work at the prison," he said, "because it was near my heart. I was sent to the Elmira Reformatory (New York) about 12 years ago, because I was too proud to humble myself and go to friends for aid. So I knew what prison life is, and when I had the opportunity to go as chaplain I felt I would understand and be of great help." Mr. Whitmeyer resigned as chaplain after he had denounced prison tactics, particularly the staying by guards of three men who attempted to escape on Feb. 22.

In the New Oakland V-8 you get a large, powerful, easy riding, beautiful car for only $992 *delivered equipped

IT HAS AN 85 H. P. V-8 ENGINE

The New Oakland is fast and smooth. It is dependable and long-lived. It is comfortable and beautiful. For this fine new car represents high standards of design and manufacture. A splendid example is found in the new 85 horsepower eight-cylinder V-type engine—the kind of power plant which has been standard in the finest cars for years, and is famous for smoothness and efficiency. This type motor fully utilizes the advantages of down-draft carburetion. In constructing this engine, fine materials and high standards of precision are employed, and careful inspections complete the assurance of unusual performance.

SYNCRO-MESH TRANSMISSION

Further convincing proof of Oakland quality is found in the transmission. To meet Oakland standards nothing would do but the remarkable Syncro-Mesh, originally conceived as a luxury few might enjoy and heretofore found only in the world's costliest cars. Syncro-shifting is easy, clashless, silent and velvet-smooth—the last word in driving satisfaction.

A NEW QUIET SECOND GEAR

Quiet operation is a characteristic of well built cars, and Oakland's new second gear is one of the features that provides this quality. In addition the design of this gear contributes greatly to Oakland's remarkable acceleration. It is a real delight to drive a car that picks up so rapidly in second gear, and with a quietness comparable to driving in "high."

A RUBBER-CUSHIONED CHASSIS

Many examples of Oakland thoroughness of construction are hidden from view. In the chassis, for instance, there are actually forty-one points where rubber cushioning is used, absorbing and deadening shocks and adding both to riding ease and to the life of the car. Oakland's rubber cushioned spring shackles make notable contribution to riding ease, eliminate twelve points of chassis lubrication, and are rattle-proof.

NEW INSULATED BODIES BY FISHER

A new interpretation by Fisher of style, comfort and luxury in bodies adds the final touch in making Oakland an inexpensive version of the finest. Not only has the Fisher system of scientifically combining wood and steel produced its usual safety and durability, but in addition these Oakland bodies introduce the very latest developments in insulation against heat, cold and noise. There is no denying that the body has much to do with one's satisfaction in the car—and the new Oakland Fisher bodies will please you in every respect from their modish styling to their sound structural qualities.

WHIPCORD OR MOHAIR UPHOLSTERY

Oakland cars are upholstered and trimmed to the same standards of style and beauty as characterize fine homes where good taste is expressed. Closed cars are upholstered in whipcord or mohair—open cars in leathers. In every detail of appointments and fittings Oakland has spared nothing to create an ensemble of flawless good taste.

Other Oakland features include: 117-inch wheelbase; five wire wheels; Lovejoy shock absorbers; one-piece fenders with fender indicator lamps; heavy single-bar bumpers; new sturdy rear axles with ball and roller bearings—oil sealed in and dust sealed out; rigid frame with five cross members; the efficient cross-flow radiator; and close-fitting electro-plated pistons.

In every way Oakland has gone to great lengths to appeal to careful, knowing buyers. It has designed the Oakland V-8 soundly and built it with thoroughness and care. This fine workmanship and attention to detail will be apparent to you when you examine the car.

* This is the price of the 2-door Sedan or Coupe delivered to you in St. Louis and equipped ready for use.

Equipment includes front and rear bumpers, shock absorbers, 5 wire wheels, and extra tire, tube and tire lock. Other models priced as follows: Sport Coupe, $1072; 4-door Sedan or Convertible Coupe, $1092; Custom Sedan, $1152.

Roy Chapman Andrews Will Leave
U. S. Saturday to Seek Aid
From China.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Believing the famous "Pekin man," whose skull was discovered near Peking, China, by scientists recently, was a mere boy, Roy Chapman Andrews, archaeologist, is going back to China in an effort to find the Pekin man's father.

Beaten by many difficulties interposed by suspicious natives and local government, Andrews' previous explorations of the Gobi Desert did not always turn out as profitably as he had hoped. He did, however, bring back numerous dinosaur eggs and other relics.

Andrews will sail from here Saturday on the President Grant to try to persuade the Chinese Government to aid him in further researches. On the plains of Eastern Mongolia he said he hoped to find the fossils of the pre-Pekin man who may be a million years older than any human relics found to date.

MRS. ELLEN ANCRUM LEE DIES

Widow of Confederate Army Officer Succumbs at 85.

Mrs. Ellen Deas Ancrum Lee, widow of Maj. Francis D. Lee, an officer of the Confederate army and later St. Louis architect, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George E. Hoffman, 5217 Westminster place. She was 85 years old, and had suffered paralysis for the past 18 months.

Mrs. Lee was born in Cambridge, S. C., and when came to St.

Louis with her husband shortly after the Civil War, was active here in the affairs of the Wednesday Club, and at one time served as president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs. Surviving her are Mrs. Hoffman, another daughter, Miss Mary E. Lee of St. Louis, and two sons, Francis D. Lee and Douglas E. Lee of Shreveport, La. Funeral services were held today from the residence, with burial in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

THIS COFFEE RESTS ITS CASE

"Aren't all coffees pretty much alike?" you may ask. "Can anyone but a professional coffee-taster tell the difference?"

If all coffees were alike in flavor, you might reasonably expect them to be alike in popularity.

Remember, then, this significant fact—reflecting the public's demand, more grocers sell Maxwell

House Coffee than any other brand.

Wonderfully rare flavor not only won Maxwell House the praise of the Old South, but has made it a present-day favorite from coast to coast.

Just try Maxwell House tomorrow; see if its rich and matchless flavor doesn't impel you, too, to say: "This is the finest coffee I've ever tasted."

LUCAS AND SHOUSE DECLINE TO URGE AN EXTRA SESSION

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Responsibility Hoover's, Says Democratic Leader—Borah Sees No

Way to Get It

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A delegation seeking an extra session of Congress got no support today from Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee, and Jouett Shouse,

chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee.

Lucas told the group, headed by Benjamin Marsh, secretary of the People's Lobby, he thought State

Legislatures now meeting should do something, and that business would do something to proceed without threat of extra session.

Shouse said responsibility rested with President Hoover, and he would make no recommendation to the Chief Executive. "Nothing the Democratic committee could say would have any weight with Mr.

Hoover," he added. "Since Mr.

Hoover became a Republican, he had been trying to convince the world that he is the best

Republican alive. I have never made any recommendation to him on something that is not his responsibility.

Marsh said Congress should be called back to pass legislation to meet the unemployment situation.

The group also failed to obtain any encouragement from Senator

Borah (Rep.), Idaho. He favored a special session, but saw no way to bring it about.

Lucas, well known vaudeville

actor, and sister-in-law of Nick Lucas, stage and movie singer, was arraigned in court here today charged with slashing with a razor

the face of a former admirer,

Bentley West, young construction worker here. Mrs. Lucas was granted an $1,000 bond, paid by herself. She is accused of attacking

West, with whom she recently quarreled, when he left a dance accompanied by a girl described as

Betty Teed, a Hollywood, Cal., divorcee. West was severely cut, narrowly escaping the loss of an eye. When officers later went to arrest Mrs. Lucas, she escaped by breaking through a basement window in her home but she later surrendered.

West today said he had received a letter from her voicing regret.

Mrs. Lucas disclosed she planned

HAWES TALKS TO LEGISLATURE

Urge Game Conservation, Reforestation, and "Fair" Redistricting.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 26.—

The Missouri Legislature was urged by United States Senator

Hawes yesterday to pass a "fair" congressional redistricting act and a "model" state fish and game and forestation law. The Senator addressed the Senators and Representatives in joint assembly in the House chamber.

Hawes told of the reallocation

by Congress reducing Missouri from 16 to 12¹/₂ Congressmen, and said the State still should have 16 representatives. "The problem of redistricting is up to you," he told the legislators. "I hope you solve it in a fair manner, giving thought to the distinguished history of our State."

Missouri, he said, with its Ozark region and other sections, had some of the greatest possibilities of any State as a game and fish and wild life recreation place,

but declared the State ranked low for conservation. "It is almost the poorest in the nation, although its possibilities are the greatest," Senator Hawes said. "The Missouri

Legislature," he continued, "will pass a model law—one that will provide for conservation and reforestation and administration of the game and fish laws as they should be administered."

by hospitals

Leading hospitals in New York as well as other famous medical institutions use A.D.S. Milk of Magnesia. These great institutions have subjected it to the most exacting laboratory and clinical tests.

Let these hospitals be your guide. You are choosing the best quality, in A.D.S. Milk of Magnesia, for home use.

A.D.S. Milk of Magnesia will prove most efficient for you and your family to take—because of its absolute uniformity and accuracy. The contents of each bottle is in every way an exact duplicate of the original formula. It is the one Milk of Magnesia whose strength and quality, per spoonful, never varies.

There is no safer product for household use than A.D.S. Milk of Magnesia

It is an ideal antacid bringing quick, sure relief for sour, upset stomach, digestive disturbance and similar conditions. It spreads a smooth film over the stomach walls that instantly counteracts excess acid. Being tasteless it is one of the best laxatives for children. Corrects excess acid while restoring regular functions.

COUNTY CIVIC LEAGUE

FIGHTS SEWER LAW

Endorses Proposal for Repeal by Initiative if Legislature Fails to Act.

Resolutions have been adopted by the St. Louis County Civic League and Arthur B. Donnelly Post of the American Legion, indorsing the resolution voted last week by the County Chamber of Commerce, which threatens to oppose collection of sewer district taxes and to seek repeal of the Ralph sewer law by the initiative, if the Legislature does not repeal it.

The Judiciary Committee of the State Senate has reported favorably a substitute for the repeal bill, which would make no essential changes in the law. A subcommittee, including Senator Ralph of St. Louis County, drafted the substitute. The same substitute had been appended to the House repeal bill.

Following the action of the Senate Judiciary Committee, the directors of the County Chamber of Commerce voted that, in case outright repeal failed, the chamber would seek to place on the 1932 general election ballot an initiative proposal for repeal. This proposal, the directors decided, should not include the saving clause contemplated in the legislative movement for repeal, which would permit assessment of certain county sewer districts to reimburse banks which advanced preliminary expense money.

The directors' resolution said that if the repeal were not passed by the Legislature in the original form of the House bill, the chamber would "with all of the strength at its command and by all legal means oppose further operations under the (Ralph) law in St. Louis County" and would "oppose the levying and collection of any tax under said law for any purpose," particularly taxes for paying bonds proposed to be issued and tax warrants issued and to be issued.

Copies of the resolution were sent to all State Senators and all banks and brokers in Missouri. The resolution directed that if the repeal bill failed copies should be sent to all State and Federal bank examiners in Missouri, the St. Louis and Kansas City Clearing Houses and Federal Reserve Banks and bond exchanges in the country and all state banking departments.

The apparent purpose of this clause of the resolution is to make sewer district bonds unmarketable. Some friends of the present law have described this as a threat to repudiate public obligations. Joseph R. Matthews, a director of the county chamber, who did not attend the meeting at which the resolution was adopted, resigned from the board upon hearing about it. He is a director of the Boatmen's National Bank, which had advanced preliminary sewer funds and hopes to be reimbursed under the saving clause.

Describing the Ralph law as fundamentally unsatisfactory, but recognizing that a proper and adequate sewer law is needed, the chamber also voted to submit to the 1932 Legislature a sewer law "with adequate protection for the rights of property owners."

The County Civic League decided to co-operate fully with the chamber if the Ralph law were not repealed or satisfactorily amended. This league was formed last year when dissatisfaction arose among some members of the chamber over the chamber's advocacy of the defeated metropolitan merger plan.

The Donnelly Post resolution demanded repeal of the Ralph law and said the post would report to the next State convention of the American Legion the names of any public officials favoring retention of the Ralph law or actively or passively opposing its repeal.

Here's good news for the families that live in apartment buildings—and for the men that own those buildings.

Simplified Refrigeration is here at last—with the new Servel Hermetic—simplest electric refrigerator ever produced. This engineering masterpiece promises longer years of "care-free," dependable Refrigeration—sets a new and advanced standard of performance.

READ THESE
QUICK FACTS

Hermetically sealed unit—fewer moving parts exposed—freedom from kitchen repairs—costs less to operate—quietest unit ever built, as shown by scientific test—handy control for fast freezing—more, usable shelf space—flat, "ribbon-type" shelves—flat, usable top—covered by factory guarantee.

are free forever from the bother of repairs in the kitchen, intricate adjustments or replacement of parts. The working unit of the Servel Hermetic is hermetically sealed—locked in a permanent bath of oil.

It requires fewer moving parts than other electric refrigerators. And all the parts most likely to cause trouble have been eliminated entirely.

It's the quietest electric refrigerator ever produced, as shown by scientific tests. And this noiselessness is the natural result of the highly simplified unit—permanent because it is built in, not added afterward by sound quieting devices.

The smart new cabinets are compact to save valuable floor space in small kitchens. Yet they offer more useful shelf space than others—with plenty of room between shelves.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 26.—OENGLE, manager of the Chattanooga club of the Southern Association last night announced "Jack" Mitchell, 17-year-old girl pitcher of this city, would sign a contract with the Lookouts upon her return from out-of-town pitching engagement.

So far as could be learned here Miss Mitchell would be the first woman to enter professional baseball.

Engle said she will work out regularly with the Lookouts and has been named to start an exhibition game with the New York Yankees here next week. She said her greatest ambition was to strike out Babe Ruth.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 26.—While officials of the Cardinals refuse to throw any light on the rumored deal of Chick Hafey for Chuck Klein, it is believed that a snag has been encountered and that if the Redbirds dispose of the holdout left fielder it probably will be to some club besides the Phillips.

Vice President Branch Rickey spent part of Tuesday and yesterday in Winter Haven, where the Phillips are in training and on his return declined to discuss any trades. It is said, however, that the Phillips will not meet Klein's demands, just as the Cardinals refuse to meet Hafey's demand, but if the Philadelphia club puts Klein on the trade block the price will be high.

As Rickey made no announcement of the deal in his return here, it is believed that Manager Burt Shotton of the Phillips asked too much, in addition to Hafey, and as a result Rickey left the powwow empty handed.

Just what Shotton demanded is unknown but there is no secret that the Philadelphia club needs pitching. In most of the games in the Grapefruit League, Shotton's twirlers have been battered from pillar to post. Shotton's club has the power, but his pitchers are as able to beat the enemy, and his team has been losing games by football scores.

Cards Can Spare Pitchers.

The Cardinals have 11 pitchers. Two of these men could be spared, if Shotton demands pitchers. Whether the Phillie manager is satisfied with Harold Lee, late of Brooklyn, and Buzz Arlett, the veteran pitcher from the Coast, is unknown. But if he wants an outfielder, too, in the Cardinals have eight and only one man.

But if Shotton is demanding men like Hallahan or Watkins or Orratti or Grimes or Dean, in addition to Hafey, it is easy to understand that the Cardinals feel his price is too high.

What will happen to Hafey if he is not traded to the Phillips? If he goes to Chicago, New York or Pittsburgh, it's a certainty that the Cards would demand a first string man in return. No matter what happens, it is a pretty good bet that Hafey will be with the Cardinals this season.

Cardinals Win Another.

Even with Hafey on the holdout list, the Cardinals continue merrily on their victorious ways and yesterday defeated the Reds of Cincinnati, 8 to 2, here. There were several pleasing incidents from a Cardinal standpoint.

One was the showing of Jess Haines, who made his first appearance in a game.

Jess went four innings and it was off his delivery that the Reds tallied both their runs. One was unanswered.

Then Jim Lindsey and Al Grabski shared the remaining five rounds and the Redmen failed to get a hit off them.

Frankie Frisch played the full game for the second time in two days and looks like he's ready. He socked three hits two of them doubles, giving him a record of five hits in the two games he has played, three of which were two-baggers.

In spite of a painful right elbow, caused from being hit by a pitched ball the day before, Jim Bottomley got in the game for five innings. It was the hottest day of the spring in Florida, and Jim asked to be worked in the hope that the exercise would help his injury.

The Cards have no game scheduled until Sunday, when they go to Sarasota to play the Indianapolis club. During the three off-days, Manager Street will order only one practice session. It will begin at 11 and continue until the skipper thinks the men have had enough.

Vanderbilt Declines Game.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 26.—Vanderbilt University has declined the invitation of the American Legion to Vanderbilt to meet the University of Detroit in a pre-season football game there during the Legion convention next fall. Vanderbilt decided against the game because the team would have insufficient time to prepare for it.

THAT there is nothing in a name is brought out by the boxing game.

Where one can see a lot of "punks" who wear initials on their trunks don't make him a champion any more than the initials on a columnist's shirt sleeve makes him an Alfred Longfellow.

The strapping New York City youngster, runner up to John Hope Doug of Newark, N. J., in the National Tennis Championships at Forest Hills last summer, won all of his singles matches in the international indoor team competition with France, which France won three matches to two, and won them in such decisive fashion as to send American hopes soaring.

His straight-set defeat of Jean Borotra, Davis Cup veteran and leader of the French team, on Monday night was the most decisive the bounding Basque of Blarritz had ever suffered indoors at the hands of an American. Just to prove it is no hand in the game, Shields came back to the ring to defend Christian Boussus, France's main hope among the younger players, in an even more decisive fashion, giving the Frenchman but seven points in three sets and five of those in the first.

Standing well over six feet tall, broad shouldered, long armed, the American youngster rifles a serve across the net in the manner of the great outdoor star the Cincinnati Reds ever possessed, was obtained today by Sidney Well, Reds president, from the New York Giants of the National League for the waiver price.

Roush made his reputation of one of the National League's smartest fielders and sluggers while playing with the Reds from 1916 to 1926. He formerly led the league in batting.

Roush had a salary difference with the Giants last year and remained out of the game during 1930. He recently was reinstated in good standing.

Roush is expected by President Well of the league to add power to his "Feddy" attack, which baseball followers have rated as second weakest in the National circuit.

Well obtained Roush after Harry Heilmann, who led the Reds at bat last season, was attacked with arthritis in the right wrist, which will keep him out of the lineup for weeks.

Bill to Reduce Fairmount Tax Goes to House

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 26.

THE Lager bill providing a reduction of the daily tax at Fairmount race track from $2500 to $1500 got over its first hurdle yesterday when it was favorably reported by the House Committee on Agriculture by a vote of 30 to 0. Representative A. B. Lager of Carlyle expects the bill to be placed on the House calendar today for early consideration.

No opposition developed in the committee discussion. Lager pointed out that the tax on Fairmount is $1000 a day higher than on one track near Chicago. The amount of tax is determined by the proximity of a track to a city of 600,000 or over.

The Senate committee has not yet considered the bill.

WESTERN WILL OPPOSE SOLDAN
NINE SATURDAY

With less than three weeks remaining before the opening of the Pre-League baseball season, most of the schools have issued the call for candidates but workouts thus far have been confined largely to indoors. St. Louis U. High has not called out its hopefuls, but Western Military Academy, Christian Brothers College and McBride High squads are working out every evening. Western will be the first of the league nine to get into action, when it meets Soldan of the City League in an interleague game on the Western field Saturday afternoon.

On paper, Western appears to have one of the strongest teams in the circuit. Capt. Holmes, coach of the Cadets, has eight lettermen in uniform, and a number of promising newcomers brings the squad to 20. There is a veteran battery in Schneithorff, catcher, and "Skip" Thompson, pitcher and captain. In Lindale, first base, Sada, second base, Wilson, third base, and Katz, shortstop, Holmes has an infield of lettermen, and two veterans, Bledenstein and Young, are available for outfield duty. Other promising candidates for the "world's professional tennis championship" it was announced today by Jack Curley of New York.

Tilden is to receive $25,000 with percentage privileges, while Richards will get a flat guarantee of $25,000 for the matches. The series will be decided by the number of wins.

The man with the low blow and the sense of humor says if some of those noveltists could write as funny as they act their best sellers would make the hot-cake output look like a drum on the market.

Western is young and the last laugh is a long way off.

However, just because Worthington is a former farm hand, cracked out a home run against Cincinnati, we don't see how the laugh is on the Cards. Looks like the Reds come in for the cackhing.

Connie Mack admits he pulled one for the error column when he let John Pius Quinn slip through his fingers. If that's the case it looks like several other A. L. managers ought to be charged with boot on the same play.

Schweke, in bad condition even for John, was at his worst when he saw John Schwake, Webster Groves freak heavyweight, a novice boxer with a punch and a punch actually win by a scratch margin in his 10-round fight with John Riso of Cleveland, heavyweight who ranked tenth in the world last year.

CURTIS-WRIGHT CORP. REPORTS
NET LOSS OF $9,374,944

Corporation's Subsidiaries Are Included in 1930

Showing.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—The Curtis-Wright Corporation, the world's largest aircraft manufacturing enterprise, together with its subsidiaries, reported a net loss for 1930 of $9,374,944. This was attributed primarily to sharp reductions in airplane prices.

This compares with a loss of $2,207,432 for the corporation and its constituent companies in the preceding year. The corporation was formed in 1929 as holding company for Curtis Aeroplane & Motor Co., the Wright Aeronautical Corp. and other aviation enterprises.

Sales, including airport and other revenues for 1930 amounted to $19,225,197 whereas the cost of sales, selling and administrative expenses are listed at $25,485,848.

Inventory adjustments and development expenses written off amounted to $2,254,842. The company's deficit as of Dec. 31, 1930, applicable to Curtis-Wright stockholders, was $15,787,515.

Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the board of directors of the company, said that he expected operations for the first half of 1931 to result in a deficit also but that a profit would be earned probably in the second half of this year.

He attributed much of the losses to the fact that inventories of completed aeroplanes at the beginning of 1930 were heavy and that it was necessary to reduce price substantially to move them. Some Robin planes were reduced successively until a remaining few of them were sold at one-quarter of their original list price. Revenues from instruction of prospective flyers were reduced considerably also.

The flying equipment and personnel provided for the Curtis-Wright Flying Service, Inc., were "far in excess of the actual demand" and contributed a very considerable portion of the losses.

Unfilled orders as of Dec. 31, 1930, totaled $12,242,156, a gain of $2,241,899 during the year.

LOCAL STOCK PRICES MIXED IN SLOW TRADE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE
March 26.—Mixed price changes were shown today on the local board.

Dr. Pepper, Brown Shoe and Mercantile-Commerce sold higher. Elder Mfg. and First National Bank were lower.

Mississippi Trust Value at 2244 was up 9 1/2 points, but lost four of the gain in the afternoon.

National Candy was a shade higher. Wagner Electric was a shade lower.

Local Business and Financial Items

Paragraphs for publication in this column should be addressed to the Financial Editor.

John W. Livingston, formerly assistant vice president, has been elected vice president of the Monsanto Chemical Works, and Dr. L. P. Kyrides has been made assistant vice president in charge of research. Vice President Livingston is manager of the St. Louis works.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas had gross revenue of $46,948,859 in 1930. It is shown in a preliminary annual report by President M. H. Cahill. Revenues were 17.8 per cent less than in 1929, in which year the M.-K.-T. handled the heaviest volume of freight traffic in its history.

Operating expenses of $30,225,000 were 19.31 per cent less than in the preceding year, the reduction in operating expenses being in slightly greater ratio than the decrease in revenue, the income earned available for payment of interest and dividends was $12,008,963 and interest payments on funded debt aggregated $4,926,416. Surplus for the year was $7,082,547.

ANACONDA COPPER PUT

ON $1.50 DIVIDEND BASIS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Directors of Anaconda Copper Mining Co. today placed the stock on a $1.50 annual basis, against $2.50 previously by declaring a quarterly disbursement of 37 1/2 cents.

The reduction was the third made in the dividend rate by Anaconda during the depression which carried the price of copper from a top of 18 cents a pound to below 10 cents. The $2.50 annual rate had been in effect since Nov. 17 last, in the quarter prior to that date a payment of 87 1/2 cents placed the stock on a $2.50 annual basis, compared with a $7 rate in effect from the second quarter of 1929.

Directors of Andes Copper Mining Co., controlled by Anaconda through Chile Copper Co., omitted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share due at this time.

Directors of Anaconda Wire & Cable Co., controlled by Anaconda Copper, declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable May 11 to stockholders of record April 11.

LACKAWANNA RAILROAD CUTS DIVIDEND RATE TO $4 BASIS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Officers of the Lackawanna & Western Railroad directors today reduced the annual dividend rate to $4 from $6 by declaring a quarterly payment of $1.

The previous rate of $6 annually had been paid every year since 1922, with an annual extra of $1 paid every year from 1924 to 1929.

This is the second of the so-called hard coal roads to reduce its rate recently, the Lehigh Valley having shaved its annual disbursement from $3.50 to $2.50.

The conservative dividend stand recently taken by the New York Central in reducing its yearly rate of payment from $8 to $6 was regarded in Wall street as foreshadowing a similar policy for Lackawanna, since the Baker and Vandervelt families are important interests in each.

Liquid Carbonic Dividend 75c.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Liquid Carbonic Corp. directors today declared a dividend of 75 cents. Previously the corporation paid dividends of 75 cents.

The quarterly payment was designated as a quarterly dividend and places the stock on a $3 annual basis, against $4 previously.

No Action Taken at Meeting.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Directors of Wilson & Co. at a postponed meeting today took no action on the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock used.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 26.—Bond sales on the New York Stock Exchange today were $8,500,000, compared with $5,500,000 yesterday, $9,300,000 a week ago and $14,657,000 a year ago. Total bond sales from Jan. 1 to date were $62,490,000, compared with $724,045,000 last year and $641,565,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-second of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99-24 means $99 and 21/32nd of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted.

HEALTH
Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Iago Goldston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Liver for Anemia

UNTIL very recently pernicious anemia was considered an insidious and slowly progressing but usually fatal disease, against which the science and art of medicine availed little.

Now, thanks largely to the works of Dr. George H. Whipple and Dr. George R. Minot, we have the means with which effectively to combat the disease. Liver, liver extract and dried and defatted hog stomach have been found effective in pernicious anemia.

Dr. Whipple, who is connected with the University of Rochester, conducted experiments with dogs suffering from anemia due to hemorrhage and demonstrated that the reproduction of lost blood largely depends on and can be influenced by diet.

Previously the belief prevailed that iron was the most important item in the treatment of anemia. Now it has been shown that in simple anemias the feeding of liver is effective in stimulating the production within the body of new red blood cells and of hemoglobin (the iron-containing element of the blood).

An adequate supply of iron is still of value in anemia, but the stimulus to reproduce blood cells comes from other substances.

Dr. Minot of Harvard applied the facts derived from Dr. Whipple's experiments to the treatment of pernicious anemia with the result that the disease, formerly almost invariably fatal, can now in many instances be controlled.

The white peonies in the living room hadn't survived the day, but Mac had paid for them herself and wanted to keep them alive. She clipped their stems, put them in fresh water. Then she lay down on one of the twin beds and looked out over buildings to the blue horizon which was Lake Michigan. She prized the apartment for this strip of lake in the distance.

She was nervously tired. Her emotions had been clashing all day and the heat was breathless.

While she lay there, with her eyes closed, thoughts of Johnny began to pock fingers at her. She realized that she was straining her ears above the roar of the bath water for the slightest tinkle of the telephone—and it was Johnny whose voice she wanted to come to her over the wire, though she knew he wouldn't, couldn't call.

If only some one would think of her, would ask her to dinner, even though she meant to stay in the evening.

She wrapped her hair in a towel, pinned it tightly in the back, and spread large daubs of cold cream into the curves of her face. She then stepped out, saluted to the water and stepped in, still listening for the phone. She left the door open so that she would not miss a call. She relaxed in the water, a she had not been able to do on the bed, and silently gave up a small prayer of thanksgiving for bath time.

And then the phone rang and rang and rang.

MAC jumped out of the tub, grabbed a big towel and ran through the bedroom to the desk. She stood there making his pools on and around the oval rug.

"Hello? Claire MacIntyre speaking." Mac held the phone against her thumping heart, hoping, hoping—

"Was it Johnny?"

"Hello, Mrs. Dean? I got you message."

"Why, yes; I called you when saw the announcement in the paper." Mac mustn't sound eager—she even glad—nor did she want to mention his marriage until he had "How are you, Johnny?" Banality of course.

"Why, I'm fine, Mac. How all your folks? Rather surprised you called me. I telephoned the office but you hadn't got in. That's my house number, though."

"I left a little early," Mac said. "I'm going east tomorrow. Mr. Thorne is sending me." She couldn't keep the small pride out of her tone. This conversation was embarrassing her. Why had Johnny called back? But she wanted to see him, she did—whether or not he was married. She knew she shouldn't say it but it just slipped out. "I thought maybe could see you before I left—but suppose you're too busy. Couldn't you and Mrs. Goodman come over tonight after the Beach Walk closes? I'm only six blocks away."

"If you're going away, I guess can come tonight. Don't know about Ruth. She said something about a date. It'll be after I though, Mac. I hate to come a "Good old Johnny and good old Ruth! Just a modern young couple, Mac reflected. Going out on separate dates so soon. They couldn't have been married more than a couple of months. She was glad Ruth had that date. She hoped she'd keep it.

"Oh, that's all right. I'll be packing anyway. And it's pretty hot to sleep. I'll have a tall, cool one ready for you. Give my regards to all the boys and girls the Beach Walk. Wish I could be there to see you. Mac was so glad he was coming. She didn't want to say any more about Ruth until he had.

"Got a radio?" Johnny asked. "We're broadcasting at 11. Station WZG. Still as high class as ever. Johnny chuckled. It was the first time he had laughed. His voice had sounded cold—peculiar—but the timbre was there and a responsive chord in Mac's heart quieted to its vibration.

"I'll certainly be listening in and seeing you at midnight. By No reference to his ex-wife. She wouldn't joke about it. She wanted to be his friend, anyway, and it was better to pretend nothing had ever happened.

She mopped up the puddles and got back into her bath, finished it rapidly. Clouds of eau de cologne body powder rose cool around her. She unwrapped the package of pajamas quickly, pulled her head through the eggshell blouse and fastening the wide belt around her slim waist. She put her toes into three golden stockings that formed the mules, wound herself into the geranium pirate

Speaking From Experience

by MARTHA CARR

(A New Department in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine.)

To Martha: It seems that I've been stylish thin, too terribly stylish and thin. I've been accused of doing things and taking things to keep that fashionably boyish figure. But, "cross-my-heart," I've done no such thing, though I've liked being stylish. I'll confess. But now feminine styles and apparent curves have come to me to gain—and I can't!

My physician laughs when I ask him to give me something to gain. He says I am well and shouldn't bother; that "doesn't run in my family" to be poly-tony. Help!

M. E. B.

Yes, it's just too tragic that about the time a woman achieves the right "lines," for which she has worked like sixty, the style changes. The new change is a welcome one and it is not easy for the modern, athletic girl to put on weight. She simply has to sit down to work. It's a daily routine that cannot be missed one day. I'll try to help and the you write me just what your experience is and tell your girl friends I'd love to hear from them on the subject.

The "help" starts out with: Lie flat on your back, after breakfast, then turn on your right side and stay for ten to twenty minutes. Take as many of these rest periods through the day as you can.

After luncheon you lie down again on your right side. Always get a short rest before dinner, and in the afternoon, if you have exercised. And after dinner lie down on your right side for an hour. Get to bed by 11 o'clock.

Now! If you don't think that is work for an active girl! But you exercise, too. Before breakfast, abdominal exercises to tone the flabby stomach muscles. At least three times a week—golf, tennis, horseback riding. But remember not to the point of fatigue! Leave that to the stocky and fat.

Before retiring: Lie flat, raise your legs as high as you can, 10 to 20 times. Again: Lie flat, bend your knees and draw them back over your abdomen as far as you can 10 to 20 times.

What to eat? Well, mostly a general diet eaten six instead of three times a day. Breakfast, in the middle of the morning, a glass of half cream and half milk. Lunch, a small but substantial meal. At 2:30 another snack, fruit or afternoon tea. Dinner, and before going to bed a small glass half cream and half milk. See what it does for you.

DEAR MARTHA: I don't know how you feel about my writing my troubles to you. I need someone who is sort of removed and safe. I cannot tell my friends. It's too personal and they just couldn't resist gabbing about it. I hate being discussed, pleasantly or otherwise. ALICE (But that isn't my name.)

But, of course, my dear, write your troubles or problems to me and chitter about as much as you please; and don't you think real things can usually be put in half the words some people take? But I really want to know what your trouble is. That is one thing we are here for, this friendly column, and though I am not sure I can remedy your difficulty, I can try, don't you think?

Dear Martha: I have found your column very interesting and helpful, and would like to ask your advice about something which I think is puzzling a lot of people. I have asked a number of friends and they have given varied opinions. Is it proper for a lady to arise to acknowledge an introduction on the following occasions:

If two couples are seated, and the parents of one of the young men enter the room. Naturally the two young men arise, but is it proper for the young women to also arise and remain standing until the older people are seated, or would this be awkward? If it is proper to arise in that case, would it also be necessary if only the father of the young man enters the room? Suppose a daughter is acting as hostess to a number of her friends, and greets them at the door, would it be proper for her mother to arise and extend her hand in acknowledgment of the introductions, or would it be proper for her to remain seated and do this?

This problem of when and when not to stand to receive an introduction has been the source of

Ping-Pong Stages a Comeback

Ancient Game, Popular 30 Years Ago, Finds Favor in the Wake of the Miniature Golf Craze—Public Courts Spring Up to Take Care of Fans Who Go in for "Table Tennis."

are made with sanded cork, leather and fully standardized. It was, of course, promptly termed an indication of decadence in our civilization, comparable to bull-fighting, cigarette smoking, luncheons, etc.

Table tennis is reported to have had its origin about 1881, when some unknown genius discovered a champagne cork properly shaped, was as amusing when bounced nine times when dropped a foot, the ball one that will bounce nine times when dropped a foot, the racquets so and so; even the costume, if you are a stickler for form.

As one book of rules has it: "As in lawn tennis, the etiquette of the game demands a neat costume. A white costume, however, is not by any means the most appropriate. It hurts the vision of an opponent. Jumpers are popular in England, while in this country there is no standard outfit."

And right there, in that sentence about the opponent's vision, you have the sportsmanship of it, too. Absolutely not cricket to have an undercover man on the sidelines flashing a mirror about, or uttering disparaging comments. No pop bottles...nothing.

The women, too, have their proper apparel if the game is to be played in its full dignity as a sport. "She should wear an attractive sport costume," says the manual, "with a short skirt that will permit freedom of motion. She should also have freedom of arm movement and will find low shoes most comfortable." The low shoes, however, concern the tiring of ankles, and have nothing to do with freedom of arm movement.

Back in the days when the game first had its start, the masculine exponent wore a blazer, while his fair partner wore, according to the book of rules, "short skirt, clearing the ground all the way around, with no train."

The game did not completely die out, however, and ping-pong sets were to be obtained at all sports dealers, even between lesser revivals. Perhaps it was miniature golf that brought it back. Many a hardy golfer who leered derision when the peewee course first appeared, later found it a diversion at odd moments too few to merit a trip to the country club. The game was given dignity despite the four-foot, ping-pong doesn't need a whole vacant lot or auto storage room for play. A table, net, racquets and ball.

That's the big advantage of ping-pong over peewee golf. Of course, ping-pong courts where you can challenge someone you don't know to a game and not regret the square over possible revenge or return at being established. Just like the miniature golf course, ping-pong doesn't need a whole vacant lot or auto storage room for play. A table, net, racquets and ball.

Even so, the ping-pong ball, of light celluloid, has to be walked mighty hard to do damage. Those living room golf sets, now, if someone really did his stuff... Ping-pong had been where miniature golf is now, since 1902, with croquet, archery, and similar sports. Occasionally, in 1922 and in 1925-26, there were feebles revivals. But the present vogue is not feeble.

ALL to wall carpets are again in use, especially in town houses and apartments. These supply a warm and luxurious background for rugs arranged before the fire, the divan or a doorway. When the floor is carpeted it seems best to have a reason for the addition of a rug, the reason being to accent an important piece of furniture, to emphasize the beauty of a doorway or to further enhance the charm of the fireplace.

That is a pretty sparkling idea of yours, June. I'm glad it came to you quickly. You have really participated me. I was going to ask my column readers to do that very thing. But soon you will see about how much space I have and you will realize how many letters I have to answer. So you will know that delays are bound to be involved. But come along!

It's a good idea to have your troubles to you. I need someone who is sort of removed and safe. I cannot tell my friends. It's too personal and they just couldn't resist gabbing about it. I hate being discussed, pleasantly or otherwise. ALICE (But that isn't my name.)

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE.

MAC left the office before five and drove up the back streets to avoid the home-going line of cars along the lake front. She was in a hurry. She was thinking very fast—dying, she had realized heavily, of realizing her loss, was washed out of her mind, but there was a streak of it in her heart. She put away the car, called for the laundry and stopped at the desk for mail, telephone calls, packages. There was only an envelope she recognized as another wedding announcement.

The hotel maids always closed the windows. Mac opened them immediately and then went into the bathroom to start a tub. She put her hair in a hairbox, stuffing it with paper she-trimmed her shoes and her dress on a hanger.

She made sure there were cigarettes in the glass holder, because there was a ginger ale in the refrigerator. Mac sat her heels on the windowsill, looking out at her piece of lake, and manicuring her nails. She was completely happy. And she was surprised that this was so—how could it be when Johnny meant nothing, nothing to her any more?

As she sewed a hook on the side of a skirt, and rolled up stockings to put into a corner of her bag, she watched the bedside clock for the hour when Johnny Goodman's Boys would be on station WGZ.

"In conclusion, Johnny Goodman, leader of Johnny Goodman's Boys, will sing a group of songs my mother never taught me, which he has entitled: 'Songs for a Girl I Love.' Johnny Goodman of State University, Station WGZ. Let's go."

Mac prayed the static wouldn't come crashing through again. She sat on the edge of a straight chair which she had pulled up to the radio, and with the heels of her slippers caught in the top seam and her chin supported by her elbows and cupped hands, she listened closely.

When the announcer said, "Songs for a Girl I Love," her heart gasped a little—but these songs, this group, must be for Ruth. She wanted to hear the songs he would sing to Ruth.

"Just a Japanese Sandman," his young, untrained tenor came out into the room and caressed her. He took the high note so lightly, so sweetly. It was the first time Mac had felt like crying. She closed her eyes and let the tears wet her eyelids. These were her songs and this was Johnny singing to her. She felt sure he would sing the same songs to Ruth so that she could hear. There wasn't that much cruelty in him. He was being sweet old Johnny again.

"Hello, Mrs. Dean! I got your message."

"Why, yes; I called you when I saw the announcement in the paper." Mac mustn't sound eager—or even glad—nor did she want to mention his marriage until he had. "How are you, Johnny?" Hanatty, of course.

"Why, I'm fine, Mac. How are all your folks? Rather surprised you called me. I telephoned the office but you'd gone. They gave me your home number, though."

"Hello? Claire MacIntyre speaking." Mac held the phone again. Her thumping heart, hoping, hoping—

"It was! It was Johnny!"

KLEENEX Disposable TISSUES

is a soft, super-absorbent tissue. So inexpensive that you use each tissue only once, then discard. So gentle that irritation is impossible.

You buy Kleenex in Cellophane-sealed packages. Each tissue is as completely sanitary as it looks.

Each tissue that touches your face is clean as clean can be.

For beauty

Use Kleenex to remove creams, cosmetics from the face. Its absorbency assures thorough cleaning.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, drug goods or department store; 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.

If you have not tried Kleenex, send for a free trial packet to the Kleenex Company,

Lake Michigan Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Bacteriological tests show:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

GANDHI GETS FULL POWER AT LONDON CONFERENCE

Working Committee of All-India Congress Names Him Chief Delegate in Effort to Attain Complete Independence.

OPPOSING FACTION PLEDGES SUPPORT

Group Headed by Mayor of Calcutta Withdraws Main Challenge to Mahatma's Leadership in Karachi Session.

By the Associated Press. KARACHI, India, March 27.—The Working Committee of the All-India National Congress, in its annual convention here, today appointed Mahatma Gandhi, chief delegate to go to London and negotiate for complete Indian self-government, with full independence in financial, military and external affairs, at the forthcoming second round table conference.

Simultaneously the active opposition to his leadership, led by Mayor Bose of Calcutta, agreed to support the program outlined in the Working Committee, thus removing the principal dissent and making certain virtually unanimous approval of Gandhi and his program when it comes up for a final vote.

The Congress Working Committee ratified Gandhi's truce with Viceroy Lord Irwin, which closed the civil disobedience campaign, and reiterated the Nationalists' demands for complete self-government. It also affirmed Burma's right to self-determination and urged that Burmese opinion be ascertained before the question of self-government is fully decided.

Urge Release of All Prisoners. The committee urged release of all political prisoners whether convicted of violent or non-violent offenses before or after the civil disobedience movement. "In the interest of peaceful atmosphere and in order to allay dissatisfaction caused by hanging Baghat Singh,"

Baghat Singh, Raj Guru and Sukhdev, hanged the night of March 23 last, were convicted at Lahore and sentenced to death Oct. 7, 1926, for the assassination of Assistant Superintendent of Police Saunders in Lahore in 1925.

At the preliminary Congress proceedings, Mayor Bose declared the New Delhi truce was disappointing and unsatisfactory. Bose, who was a victim of the recent police charge at Calcutta, shouted: "We want a socialist-republic of India; we want all around, undivided freedom; we want India to give Indian gurb to Russian Socialists. The program of the Congress, which is weak and vague temporizing, cannot gain for India her independence. The only way to achieve that is by radical revolutionary methods, in the execution of which India must be prepared to lose many more sons."

Becoming more conciliatory, Bose then urged his revolutionary followers to support Gandhi and the program of the Congress.

"I cannot for a moment question the patriotism of those responsible for the terms of the New Delhi truce," he said, "and consequently the best course for us is to avoid conflict and to do some positive work which will strengthen the world's power."

Destruction of Imperialism.

"Free India," he said, "would spell destruction to imperialism throughout the world. Let us therefore, rise to the occasion and make India free so that humanity may be safe."

The eleventh-hour capitulation by the revolutionary party led by Bose put the Gandhi supporters in a jubilant mood. They declared the Mahatma would receive a sweeping vote of confidence at the full session of Congress which would give him carte blanche in London.

Meanwhile, in the middle of the stadium where the Congress party is meeting, Gandhi yesterday held tens of thousands of Indians spellbound for an hour while he reiterated his creed of nonviolence.

When he had finished, the audience stamped out of the stadium and one aged man was crushed to death. Several persons were injured.

"No one can harm me," Gandhi had told them, "so long as it's God's will that I serve India. God himself would not be with me."

He addressed himself particularly to his "young friends," the extremist elements composed largely of young men who have developed bitter opposition to his policies.
